Pickets Ready To Answer Call At Shoe Plants In Bay State

Agreements on Wage Increases May Avert Walkouts

MANY NEW DISPUTES

Electric Boat Co. and Douglas Aircraft Co. Affected

(By the Associated Press)
Pickets awaited calls to shoe plants in the great Massachusetts manufacturing center today as labor rows brought numerous new walkouts or sit-down strikes in communities from coast to coast.

Quick agreement, however, to demands of the United Shoe and Leather Workers' union for a 15 per cent wage increase by more than a score of the New England shoe manufacturers moved Organizer William B. Mahan to assert:

"I think we have already won this strike."

A 24-hour picket detail replaced "sit-downers" at the Electric Boat company, Groton, Conn., from which strikers were ejected by state troopers yesterday.

Like the Douglas Aircraft company at Santa Monica, Calif., whose plant continued to be occupied by "sit-downers," the boat firm has big government contracts.

Other sectors a strike closed a watch case plant at Elgin, Ill., disension in union ranks of the recently striking glass workers flared; United Mine Workers wage negotiations were submitted to a subcommittee of operators and diggers, and the motor industry had a new union request to consider.

Union Head Outsted

At Clarksburg, W. Va., L. P. Jay, vice president of the Federation of Flat Glass workers, announced the dismissal of Glen W. McCabe, veteran president of the union.

"I acted as chairman of a three-man commission which dismissed McCabe," said Jay.

He declined to amplify his statement, or to discuss assertions by McCabe that his "suspension" was in violation of union regulations.

Still engaged in discussions to wind up its recent dispute with General Motors, the United Automobile Workers sent Walter F. Chrysler, president of the auto firm, bearing his name, a request for a "national conference" looking toward a collective bargaining agreement.

Several settlements were announced in Detroit disputes but a dozen factories there continued closed by labor differences.

Grants Motion to Discontinue Suit Against Rubinoff

Peggy Garcia's Attorney Makes Move on Suggestion of Judge

New York.—(AP)—Peggy Garcia's $500,000 breach of promise suit against Dave Rubinoff ended abruptly in supreme court today when Justice Salvatore A. Cottillo granted a motion to discontinue, made by her counsel, Bernard Sandler.

Sandler's decision to drop the action against the radio violinist occurred while Peggy was on the stand relating the details of her marriage in 1925 to Taylor Vance Guinn. Justice Cottillo broke in and said:

"There is no desire on my part to continue this trial and drag in dirt and have the names of innocent persons dragged into it. Why doesn't counsel make a motion to discontinue?"

In discontinuing the case, Justice Cottillo said that the minutes of the testimony would be sent to the office of District Attorney William C. Dodge, for consideration.

Sandler's action followed a digest by Justice Cottillo concerning marriage laws in the state of Virginia, where Peggy admitted that she wed Guinn in the city of Salem.

Defense Objects

The discontinuance took place over the objections of Abraham Halprin, Rubinoff's attorney, who said that "serious charges" had been made against his radio violinist client by the Garcia girl and he wanted an opportunity to prove they were not true.

In dismissing the jury which had listened to testimony for the last 10 days, the justice said that he thought he did the best thing "in

Skunks in Church May Bar Services

Juneau, Wis.—(AP)—If members of St. Mathews Lutheran church at Woodland, Dodge county, can dispossess a skunk family, they expect to be able to hold services at the church Sunday.

The pastor consulted William Field, deputy conservation warden, on ways and means of driving out the unwelcome little animals. The skunks were found in the basement, but Field retreated within a few minutes. Traps will be set.

Field said the skunks apparently hibernated in the basement after crawling through a ventilation hole. Their presence became evident after warm weather presumably prompted them to explore the interior of the church.

All windows in the church have been thrown wide open.

Townsend Denies 'Walkout' Plans

Made No Arrangements Before Committee Called Him, He Says

BULLETIN

Washington.—(AP)—A jury convicted Dr. Francis E. Townsend today of contempt of the house of representatives for walking out of a committee hearing last May.

The verdict was returned exactly an hour after the jury received the case. The United States district court jury deliberated only 50 minutes, however, before reaching its decision as it had sent word 10 minutes earlier that it was ready to report.

Washington.—(AP)—Dr. Francis E. Townsend denied today at his trial for contempt of the house that he had planned his sensational "walkout" on a house committee last May before the committee summoned him.

Contradicting testimony to that effect by John B. Kiefer, former Townsend aide yesterday, the California physician said he had made no such plans and had no such understanding with other members of his old age pension organization.

The defense then announced its testimony was concluded.

The only other defense witness was Representative Tolan (D-Calif.).

The trial of Dr. Townsend proceeded after Justice Peyton Gordon refused to direct the jury to find the old age pension advocate guilty of contempt of the house. Gordon threw out one count in the indictment—that charging Townsend with refusing to answer questions of a house investigating committee. He ruled, however, that Townsend should continue on trial on another count charging contempt for leaving the committee's hearing last May without permission.

Charges Dropped In Chilton Case

Revenue Law Not Retroactive, Judge Agrees In Federal Court

Milwaukee.—(AP)—Federal Judge F. A. Geiger dismissed today charges of illegal use of internal revenue stamps which had been brought against John N. Landgraf, Sr. and Oliver W. McCarty, former officers of the old Calumet Brewing Co., of Chilton.

Landgraf and McCarty were indicted in 1936 on 17 counts alleging that in 1933 and 1934 they failed to brand their beer kegs with the company's name, failed to attach revenue stamps and failed to make specified reports.

Judge Geiger agreed with Leo P. Fox of Chilton, defense counsel, that although the alleged acts were in violation of the new revenue act which went into effect in 1936, the law was not retroactive.

Sheboygan Man Dies of Injuries in Accident

Sheboygan.—(AP)—Henry Meggers, 72, a police telephone operator who was struck by an automobile last night, died in St. Nicholas hospital today of shock resulting from head injuries. Meggers was struck at an intersection near the city hall as he was going home from work. The driver of the automobile was not held and authorities said there would be no inquest.

450 Coal Miners in - Hungry Hunger Strike

Pecs, Hungary.—(AP)—Four hundred and fifty coal miners declared a hunger strike today for themselves and 100 ponies underground with them in a 656-foot shaft.

Demanding an increase in the daily pay from $1 to $1.20, they shut off the mine's water supply and air pump and declared over the mine telephone they would feed neither themselves nor the ponies until their demands were met.

Fearful of rising water in the shaft and the possibility of dangerous gases, authorities expressed anxiety for the safety of the strikers. A regiment of troops and police were on duty at the shafthead.

O. P. Schlafer Succumbs to Heart Disease

Business, Civic and Church Leader Dies in South Carolina

WAS ON WAY HOME

One of Oldest Hardware Dealers in United States

O. P. Schlafer, 78, pioneer Appleton business man, church and civic leader, and one of the oldest if not the oldest hardware dealer in point of continuous service in the United States, died unexpectedly about 9 o'clock last night at Orangeburg, S. C.

Mr. Schlafer left Appleton Jan. 15 for a southern trip with his son, Wilmer Schlafer, and two daughters, Mrs. Karl Haugen and Mrs. Margaret DeLong, and was returning home when his death occurred. When he left Appleton, he was believed to be in better health than he had been for some time, and joined in the trip to Mexico, several Central American countries and Florida.

He showed no signs of ill health when he retired early at Orangeburg last night, but was found dead later in the evening.

Mr. Schlafer was president of the Schlafer Supply company, of Schlafer, Incorporated and the Wisconsin Wire Works.

Insurance Official

He was one of the originators of the Wisconsin Retail Hardware association and as its president instrumental in the organization of the Hardware Dealers Mutual Fire Insurance company in 1904 and the Hardware Dealers Mutual Casualty company in 1914. The word "dealers" later was dropped by both organizations.

He served as president of both companies from the time of their formation until four years ago when he was made chairman of the two boards of directors. The Hardware Mutual Casualty company has become one of the largest of its kind in the United States.

He was a member of the board of directors of the Y. M. C. A., and for several years was on the boards of the First National and Commercial

Pay Inadequate; Bids Are Ordered Returned

Washington.—(AP)—Representative Gerald Boleau, Wausau, Wis., Progressive, announced yesterday the treasury has agreed at his request to return bids for a new Wausau, Wis., post office because wages to be paid on the job would have been below a new scale the Wisconsin Industrial commission will establish soon. This means, he said, that there will be a slight delay on the project pending the reception of new bids on the basis of a new and higher wage for labor in Wausau.

Boleau was advised today by Vorys Wabnitz, chairman of the Wisconsin Industrial commission, that within a few days a revised wage schedule will be fixed for Wausau which will be "substantially higher than the old schedule."

Carpenters and bricklayers will receive about 10 cents an hour more than the present scale called for in the specifications.

Boleau said there would be no unnecessary delay in the submitting of new bids and he would do all he could to expedite the construction of the building.

Racine Man Wins Stay In HOLC Fraud Case

Milwaukee.—(AP)—Federal authorities received word today that the United States Circuit Court of Appeals had granted a stay to L. C. Christensen of Racine, pending its hearing of his appeal from a six-month sentence on the house of correction.

Christensen was convicted in federal court several weeks ago on a charge of attempted fraud against the Home Owners' Loan corporation. Judge F. A. Geiger granted him five days to make his appeal.

The circuit court declared it would be unfair to confine Christensen inasmuch as his sentence is short and the appeal cannot be heard until April.

More Than 60 Merchants Plan Dollar Day Thursday

About 65 local merchants are co-operating in Appleton's big winter selling event, Dollar day, on Thursday. A shopper has only to visit the stores to see the countless values at dollar prices and convince himself that it is the opportunity time to take care of his needs for some time to come.

After more than two weeks of preparation, merchants have announced they are ready to handle the huge crowds that will visit the shopping section from Appleton and nearby cities.

Among cooperating merchants are The Pettibone Peabody company, Irving Zuelke, Vogue Beauty salon, Hilda A. Wunderlich's, United Cloak shop, G. L. Kreick furs, Unique Frock shop, Appleton Army store, Brauer's, Nehls, Sniders restaurant, A. B. C. Food market, Wisconsin Michigan Power company, Piggly Wiggly.

Enough Votes Seen to Beat Court Program

Opponents Say They are Strong Enough to Prevent Final Vote

CONFLICTING CLAIMS

Tydings of Maryland Comes Out in Opposition to Proposals

Washington.—(AP)—Objections by Senators King (D-Utah) and McNary (R-Ore.) blocked action in the senate today on legislation which would permit supreme court justices to retire voluntarily at 70 with full pay.

The retirement bill, which already has been passed by the house, has been approved by President Roosevelt although it is not a part of his broader program for putting "new blood" into the high tribunal.

The measure came up during consideration of bills on the calendar, requiring unanimous consent for their approval. Both King and McNary objected. King has expressed opposition to the president's program.

A moment later, Senator McCarran (D-Nev.) attempted to move to take up the bill, but McNary, the Republican leader, contended the motion was not in order.

The Nevada senator is expected, however, to get the court bill up tomorrow or the next day.

Washington.—(AP)—Senate opponents of President Roosevelt's court program said today, after Senator Tydings (D-Md.) joined their ranks, that "enough votes to defeat the bill are in sight."

They did not claim sufficient votes already were committed, but insisted they had enough to "stop" the bill by holding it up in the judiciary committee or preventing a final senate vote.

Administration forces contended they had enough votes to pass the bill, but their immediate attention was centered on enacting during the next day or two the voluntary retirement bill for supreme court justices.

This bill, approved by Mr. Roosevelt but not an integral part of his broader program for putting "new life" into the bench, was expected to meet little opposition. It provides full pay for justices who wish to leave the high court at 70.

Senator Rittman (D-Nev.) served notice, however, he would renew the unsuccessful fight he made in committee to eliminate the section subjecting retired justices to be on call for service in lower courts.

Vote Possible Today

Senator McCarran (D-Nev.), in charge of the bill, said he would call it up either today or tomorrow.

Consolidation Bill Is Defeated in Assembly

Madison.—(AP)—By a 57 to 30 vote the assembly today killed the Rubin bill to consolidate the offices of alderman and county supervisors in the city of Milwaukee.

Representatives of the Milwaukee suburbs who viewed the bill as an entering wedge to consolidate the local governments in the county, mustered the support of rural members and assemblymen from other cities to defeat the proposal.

A debate that lasted well beyond the noon hour preceded the roll call.

Assemblyman Ben Rubin, (P), Milwaukee, author of the bill, challenged the statements of the opposition that the city is trying to "gobble up" its municipal neighbors and asserted it was exclusively an economic measure that would save $50,000 a year.

Milwaukee now has 27 aldermen and 16 of the supervisors on the county board.

Janesville Lawyer Is Named Loomis' Assistant

Madison.—(AP)—Attorney General Orland S. Loomis appointed Attorney Harold H. Persons of Janesville as his senior assistant today.

Persons will take over his new duties at once, Loomis said. He is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin law school and has practiced law in Janesville since 1925.

Congress Gets 4-Year Low Rent U.S. Housing, Slum Clearance Plan

Phil Asks Fund of Million for Loans In Drought Areas

Thousands Still Suffering From Last Year's Aridity, He Says

Madison.—(AP)—Governor LaFollette asked the legislature today to set aside $1,000,000 of state money for loans to farmers in the Wisconsin drought regions who have to buy feed to save their dairy herds.

The governor called members of the senate and assembly agriculture committees into conference yesterday and told them that thousands of farmers are still suffering from the effects of last year's drought.

He offered a bill which the committees will introduce to put the lending plan into effect.

It authorizes the counties to make direct loans to qualified farmers for a two year period. The state treasury will earmark $1,000,000 of its funds to cover the cost.

The state will get the money back by withholding an equivalent amount of the counties' share of future income and whisky taxes, and the counties must be repaid by the farmers who receive the loans.

Funds For Counties

Meanwhile money to make the loans will be supplied to the counties in the form of advances from the state treasury.

Governor LaFollette told the legislative committees that his administration is doing everything possible to obtain adequate help from the federal government but the amount of federal aid thus far available has not been sufficient to meet the needs in Wisconsin.

"Thousands of farmers face the loss of all or part of their dairy herds unless aid is immediately forthcoming," the governor said.

Drought committees have been functioning in the counties affected and the executive plan was to use existing facilities for certifying farmers eligible for loans.

The northwest sector of Wisconsin was hardest hit by last year's dry spell. Special WPA programs were created to provide work for farmers who needed cash to buy feed, but the governor said these relief measures were not adequate.

Lindbergh Lands His Airplane at Bombay

Bombay, India.—(AP)—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh landed here at 1 p. m. (2 a. m., C. S. T.) today after being unreported for 43 hours on an aerial jaunt over India.

Little concern had been felt for the flying colonel and his wife, whose insistence on absolute privacy has previously caused them to be reported lost, although a widespread unofficial search failed to penetrate their mysterious two-day disappearance.

They left Jodhpur at 1:50 p. m. (2:50 a. m. C. S. T.) Monday after a weekend spent in sightseeing in the Indian city. At the time of their take-off they were unreported enroute to Delhi.

Proposed Changes Delay Debate on Trade Agreements

Administration Sees Defeat For Amendment on Extension of Power

Washington.—(AP)—Proposed amendments to restrict the president's power slowed up senate debate today over extension of the reciprocal trade agreements act.

Administration leaders predicted all the suggested changes, put forward with bi-partisan support, would be rejected. Similar attempts to alter the measure were defeated by the house.

Senators Vandenberg (R-Mich.) and Capper (R-Kans.) led the opposition with demands that congress exercise more direct control over the making of further trade agreements.

Vandenberg asked that any agreement limiting the power of congress to fix internal taxes be prohibited, and that the state department give notice beforehand of all commodities it planned to cover in an agreement.

Capper urged senate ratification of all trade pacts and proposed dropping the "most-favored nation" policy.

Production Costs

On the Democratic side, Senators Pepper and Andrews of Florida and Senators Ellender and Overton of Louisiana asked that the cost of production of American Agricultural commodities be guaranteed.

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) urged that all trade agreements be submitted to congress 30 days before taking effect.

The senate's first debate on major legislation brought frequent clashes between Vandenberg and Capper and Senator Harrison (D-Miss.), the long-legged leader of administration forces.

One was over Brazil's babassu nuts, which Alf. M. Landon, 1936 Republican presidential candidate, had mentioned in a campaign speech assailing the pacts.

Vote $150,000 for State Credit Body

Senators Favor Aid to Needy Wisconsin Farmers and Home Owners

Madison.—(AP)—The senate voted today to appropriate $150,000 for a Wisconsin home and farm credit administration to assist needy farmers and home owners in refinancing their debts.

The bill carries $60,000 annually for the next biennium, and also $30,000 for the rest of the current fiscal year.

It specifies that the funds be used to obtain credit facilities for those requesting aid, to negotiate loans from agencies of the federal government or other sources, to refinance mortgages and other obligations, and to adjust or compromise debts.

The senate concurred in the assembly measure providing one day's rest in seven for employees of factories and mercantile establishments, specifying the employee shall do no work during such 24-hour period, except in certain cases of emergency.

Assemblyman Charles Budlong's bill, exempting the town of Wagner of Marinette county from bearing any cost of constructing an interstate bridge and shifting the cost to Marinette county, received senate concurrence.

Want Senate to Vote On Regent Appointees

Madison.—(AP)—Requirement that appointments of the governor to the university board of regents be confirmed by the senate is provided in a bill being drafted by Senators Conrad Shearer, (R), Kenosha, and John Cashman, (P), Denmark.

Shearer said today the measure, introduced last week by title only, would make only that change in the existing statute, which gives the power of appointment to the governor.

He added that he understood several bills to change the method of selecting regents would be introduced by other legislators.

Both Cashman and Shearer attended the hearing at which the board of regents dismissed Dr. Glenn Frank as university president.

Secretary Roper Raps Sit-Down Strike Move

Washington.—(AP)—Secretary Roper, asked today for comment on sit-down strikes, replied:

"Any sit-down strike that undertakes to take over private property is a serious and fundamental thing and in my opinion would not be long endured by the courts."

Roper added to reporters he was giving his personal views. He did not elaborate.

Embodies Major Provisions of Last Year's Housing Bill

ASKS FOR BILLION Favors Loans and Grants To Help Local Authorities

Washington.—(AP)—Senator Wagner (D-N. Y.) and Representative Steagall (D-Ala.) submitted to congress today a $1,000,000,000 four-year low rent housing and slum clearance program, claiming endorsement of many "sectors of the federal government."

It embodies "in improved form," they added, the major provisions of the housing bill which passed the senate last year but failed in the house.

The measure provides for federal loans and grants to assist local authorities in developing low rent housing slum clearance projects and families of small incomes.

It proposes a $1,000,000,000 bond issue and a federal contribution of $50,000,000 during the four years.

Estimating $500,000,000 of non-federal loans would be available, the authors said this would provide for 375,000 family dwelling units at $4,000 each.

Establishment of a new United States housing authority, they said, "will enable the president to gather under one roof the scattered organizations now empowered to engage in housing."

Like English System

The Reconstruction Finance corporation and the federal housing administration, they contended, "can do no more than facilitate the financing of homes for people who can afford homes and who have credit standing."

The annual federal contributions, they said, would be "based upon the remarkably successful English system" and would not exceed 45 per cent of rentals.

"Federal expenditures, in terms of appropriations over the four year period, will be only $1 for every $28 of private money drawn into the building program," the sponsors asserted.

"And when we take into account the likely effect of this low rent housing program upon housing for other income groups generally, we may say that each dollar of federal expenditure will evoke $50 worth of private investment in home building."

Senator Wagner claimed the project would stimulate durable goods industries, augment and insure recovery from the depression, and "provide better living quarters for millions who now dwell in dismal and insanitary surroundings."

The bill, he contended, contains adequate safeguards against competition with private industry.

Brief Strike Ended by Agreement Over Wages

Rhineland, Wis.—(AP)—Following the successful lead of Thunder Lake Lumber company employees, who obtained a wage adjustment last Saturday, the approximately 100 employees of the Robbins Flooring company here late yesterday ended a three-hour sit-down strike with assurances that their demands for a pay increase will be met.

Although officials of the Robbins firm declined to comment on the wage adjustment, it was learned that the "base wage was raised to 37 cents per hour. That is the same base as that obtained by Thunder Lake mill and yard workers."

The hourly rate of pay of Robbins workers was increased in amounts varying from 3 1/2 to 5 cents, skilled workers receiving the larger amount.

Yankee Advisor of Former Ruler Dies At U. S. Capital

Washington.—(AP)—Everett A. Colson, Yankee confidante and advisor of Haile Selassie during Italy's conquest of Ethiopia, died last night.

He suffered a breakdown in Europe last year and had been in George Washington hospital for several weeks.

Colson, a native of Warren, Maine, went to Addis Ababa in 1930 as the Ethiopian emperor's financial adviser. He helped raise funds for defense of the African nation and was credited by many with being the "power behind the throne" in Selassie's dealings with the League of Nations.

Quiet and modest, but a hard worker, he was called to Haiti in 1920 to help out the government's finances in shape after having been in the United States consular service in China and the Philippines.

His widow, Mrs. Anna Johnston Colson, formerly of Ironton, Ohio, and a son, Edward, a student, survive.

Taxpayers Urged To File Reports On Income Early

Assistance Offered at Courthouse Office Until March 1

An appeal for early return of state income tax blanks from the Appleton office of the assessor of incomes was coupled today with a reminder that offer of help at the courthouse in filling out returns is limited to March 1.

After that date, only questions will be answered so that the greatest number of persons can be given attention. Persons desiring assistance in the details of preparing returns have been requested to call at the assessor of incomes office before the deadline.

Numerous taxpayers have taken advantage of the assistance offered these filing early. The collections of 1937 as a result of early filing, and apparent improved business conditions, during the same period of 1936, shows a decided increase over the collections of the same period of 1935. The persons who have filed early are expected to receive their returns before March 1 at which time the amount of personnel attention will necessarily have to be confined to answering questions only.

Must List Gifts
The taxpayer's attention has been called to the Wisconsin gift tax law governing the gifts made during the year 1936. The individual income tax return for 1936 provides a space in the upper right hand corner, page 1, for the taxpayer to list gifts made during the year 1936, secure forms for reporting gifts from the assessor's office. The amount of exemption allowed, depending on the relationship between the donor and donee, will be found on the reverse side of the gift tax form.

Those required to file returns are single persons with an income of $600 a year or more, a married man with an income of $1,600 or more, and a man and wife with combined income of $1,600 a year or more. All those acting in a fiduciary capacity as executors, administrators, guardians, agents and so forth, and co-partnerships. All persons who have received a Wisconsin income tax blank must file a return regardless of the amount of their income.

Remit With Return
Remittance for any taxes due must be enclosed with the tax return when it is mailed to the assessor of incomes office. A 2 per cent discount is allowed if the total taxes are paid in full on or before March 15. If paid on the installment basis, no discount is allowed. The first installment due at the time of filing on or before March 15, must be at least one-third of the total normal and teachers' surtax, but not less than $5. The remainder of the tax is then due on or before August 1.

Taxpayers are requested to mail in their returns as early as possible to insure their reaching the assessor's office on or before March 15. Because of the big volume of mail coming in during the last few days, returns are often delayed and are subject to a late filing fee of $5, if not filed on or before March 15.

Call Meeting on Cheese Program

Committee to Present Legislative Program at Madison Session

Representatives of Wisconsin's cheese industry who, on Jan. 12, attended a general conference called by the department of agriculture and markets to discuss cheese grading, have been asked by Commissioner F. Schultheiss to meet at Madison again Thursday to hear the report of a committee appointed by the earlier conference to draft a legislative program. R. C. Swanson, county agent, has been notified.

The committee is composed of an American and brick cheese group and representatives of the Swiss cheese industry. The Swiss cheese group last week named William Preston, Juda, to represent producers, and Carl Marty, Jr., Monroe, to represent dealers. J. P. Zwickel, Monticello, was selected as alternate for Mr. Marty.

The American and brick cheese group chose its full representation to the committee at the January meeting. Representing that group are Herman Ihde, Neenah; Paul Weiss, Barab; Stewart Giffin, Green Bay; Ray Brown, Fond du Lac; L. E. Koplitzke, Marion, and Fred Wuestrich, Doylestown.

Propose Flood Control Regions Under New Plan

Measure Would Separate This Work From That Of Conservation

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington — Flood control and conservation in Wisconsin would be under two different authorities, under the terms of a bill establishing seven flood-control regions, introduced by Senator Alben N. Barkley, D., Ky., and Senator Robert J. Bulkley, D., Ohio.

Part of it would be under the Great Lakes-Ohio river authority, including all rivers and their tributaries that flow into the Great Lakes and all rivers flowing into the Ohio river, except the Tennessee and its tributaries. The rest of Wisconsin, including the southern and western part, would be under the Mississippi valley authority, which would include all drainage basins which shed their water into the Mississippi river, except the Missouri and the Arkansas basins, which would have their separate authorities, the Ohio, and the Tennessee.

The president previously suggested that there should be about eight regional authorities to deal with flood control, conservation, and public works. The Tennessee Valley Authority already exists.

Purpose of Group
The purpose of the flood control authorities, as outlined by the bill, would be for "erecting, maintaining, and operating dams, reservoirs, canals, and other works to control destructive flood waters of the rivers of the United States, improving the navigability of such rivers, acquiring by purchase, gift, cession, or condemnation, land, overflow, or marginal lands to be used for cultivating timber, protecting wildlife, conserving and developing natural resources, and setting aside such lands as timber or game preserves or for public parks or recreational areas."

This would include most of the purposes outlined in the president's discussion of the integrated planning of such control and conservation of waters and lands, but not all.

Other Regions
Other regional authorities proposed in the measure are: Atlantic Seaboard, Missouri Valley, Arkansas Valley, including also all rivers flowing into the Mississippi and the Gulf of Mexico south of the Arkansas; Columbia Valley; Colorado Valley, including also all rivers flowing into the Pacific Ocean south of the Columbia system.

Each authority would have a board of directors composed of three members appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate, to be paid annually $10,000 each, for a term of nine years.

The authorities would have the power of eminent domain to acquire land by condemnation or otherwise for purposes of the act.

Before any authority could develop electrical power in connection with the flood control works, it would have to recommend the power project to Congress for its approval.

Extend Tax Payment Time in Grand Chute

Time for payment of real estate taxes in the town of Grand Chute has been extended without penalty to July 1, Ray Feuerstein, town treasurer, announced this morning. The extension was approved yesterday by the town board. All personal property tax payments, however, Feuerstein said, must be made by March 1. About 70 per cent of the real estate and personal property taxes has been paid, the treasurer reported.

Urges One Unit To Combat Crime In Wisconsin

Attorney General Says Organization Should be Non-Partisan

Madison — (P)—Attorney General Orland S. Loomis, speaking at the first Wisconsin Conference of Crime Control, expressed the hope today that social and law enforcement agencies of the state may be molded into an efficient unit with the single purpose of protecting society's interests.

Such an organization, he counseled, should be divorced from partisan politics and its administration should be placed in the hands of civil service personnel. The federal government, he added, has in recent years set a "splendid" example in its measures to control interstate crime.

Loomis' talk sounded the theme to be developed in a three-day discussion of crime control at the University of Wisconsin. Nearly 100 social workers, educators, clergymen, jurists and law enforcement officials attended the opening session.

Finds Public Aroused
"No one conference," he said, "will ever solve the problem of crime, but this meeting is an excellent expression of public concern for a more effective control of crime."

He emphasized that the purpose of the conference was the organization of numerous state agencies into a coordinated unit.

Charles Y. Birt, secretary of the Madison Community union, said agencies dealing with delinquents should substitute for "fear and punishment" a program of "guidance and sympathy." Some 8,000 children pass through Wisconsin juvenile courts each year, he said, and 1,761 are now confined to institutions because of delinquent acts.

The most effective community program to prevent delinquency, Birt added, is to strengthen the agencies that deal with children—the home, the church, the school and the neighborhood. Criminals, he said, develop largely during the childhood and adolescence.

Don't Use Influence
The church, Birt said, falls to exert all the good influence of which it is capable because "those who need it most do not make use of it." He criticized the aloofness of some clergymen to community enterprises.

"A more active participation in community enterprises by clergymen, a wider knowledge of the ways public and private groups can serve the church, and the molding of public opinion from the pulpit would give strength to community programs offering a constructive plan for the use of leisure," he declared.

Tuberculosis in Chickens Means Loss to Owners

State Veterinarian Explains Means of Detection and Control

Warning that a tuberculous flock of chickens is an economic loss to its owner, Dr. W. Wisnicky, state director of livestock sanitation, explained today how the disease can be detected and most effectively controlled.

With poultry tuberculosis, just as with human or bovine tuberculosis, the disease is considered chronic and slowly progressive, Dr. Wisnicky said in a report received by R. C. Swanson, county agent. It takes several months and sometimes a year or more after entry of infection for chickens to show evidence of the disease.

"Outward evidence of the disease is manifested in gradual loss of flesh, particularly the breast muscles. A lameness in one or both legs, and a drooping of wings are caused by tuberculous germs in the joints," he said. "In advanced stages, the comb, wattles, the skin of the head, and other parts of the body become pale, the feathers are ruffled, and the bird becomes infirm."

Lodges in Liver
The living germ of the disease lodges in the liver, spleen, intestines, lungs, kidneys, ovary, bones, and other parts of the body, but particularly in the liver, he pointed out. A diseased liver contains tubercles of a whitish or yellowish appearance, making a "spotted liver." He explained, however, that there are other causes that will produce spots on the liver.

Drastic procedure is necessary to eliminate this disease for which there is no known cure. For all flocks except those having valuable blood lines, it is best to dispose of the entire flock during the summer after the principal laying season is over, Dr. Wisnicky advised.

This procedure should be considered beforehand, he cautioned, and enough baby chicks secured in the spring to give the flock owner a pullet flock that will take care of the egg-laying needs for the following year. These chicks should be raised on ground to which the infected birds had no access. Poultry tuberculosis germs are resistant and live in soil for at least three or four years, he said.

It is wise, he said, to dispose of an infected flock at the end of the laying year and to raise chicks on clean ground for a series of four or more consecutive years. Flocks of valuable blood lines can be tested, the infected birds removed, and the flock retested from time to time to control the disease. Dr. Wisnicky explained, but this method is too expensive to warrant use except in the case of valuable breeding flocks.

Hear Arguments on Plea To Build Radio Station

Washington — (P)—Communication commission examiners heard arguments today on the application of Walter H. McGenty, Duluth, Minn., for permission to construct a new radio station at Lake Wisconsin.

McGenty, publisher of the stock and Dairy Farmer at Duluth, testified he planned to move to Rice Lake where he also is a partner in an oil business with his brother, James J. McGenty.

Attorneys for WDCY, Minneapolis, Minn., and WMFG, Hibbing, Minn., objected to approval of McGenty's application on the ground it would interfere with their stations. McGenty sought authority to build a station operating on 1210 kilocycles with 250 watts power to broadcast daytime.

here this week will be Herman Ihde, Neenah, president of the Wisconsin State Grange, who will discuss the merits of a state police system, in conjunction with J. Thelen, DePere, secretary of the Wisconsin County Board association, and Captain D. S. Leonard, Detroit, of the Michigan state police.

Other Fox River Valley participants in the conference will be Circuit Judge Edgar Werner, Appleton, president of the Wisconsin Board of Circuit Judges, who is a member of the program committee; Mrs. Katherine Sullivan of Kaukauna, who will discuss juvenile delinquency and criminal administration; Justice Joseph Martin, Green Bay, a member of the state supreme court, who will lead the discussion of the relation of the legislature and the courts to parole. He will be assisted by John B. Chase, Oconto member of the governor's pardon board.

The conference will continue for three days, beginning Wednesday, and will be held at the Memorial Union on the university campus.

Tax Payments are Due By End of This Week

With three days remaining for the payment of taxes, busy days have again returned to the office of Joseph A. Kox, city treasurer. Taxes will become delinquent on March 1 unless the state legislature changes regulations concerning tax collections before the end of the week. Many taxpayers who have been withholding their payments until the last possible minute are remitting them at the treasurer's office this week. The treasurer's office remained open last night to accommodate taxpayers unable to make calls during the regular office hours.

Pinball Machine Operators Favor Regulation but Not Wisconsin Ban on Devices

Madison — (P)—Operators of the pinball industry in Wisconsin, opposing a bill before the legislature to outlaw pin tables and similar games, suggested today that the state license and regulate rather than prohibit such devices.

Isadore Jay, Milwaukee chairman of the Skill Games Board of Trade of Wisconsin, told the assembly committee of excise and fees at a public hearing yesterday: "Let's get some regulation. We welcome regulation."

Jay led the defense after Assemblyman Martin Frankowiak, (D), Milwaukee, author of the bill, police officers, teachers, clergymen and representatives of church organizations labeled pinball games a "terrible menace" to youth.

Opponents of the measure, conceding the tables could be used for gambling purposes as well as other games—contract bridge, bowling and billiards were mentioned—declared present anti-gambling statutes were adequate to prevent law violations.

Applause followed each point of attack and defense before a crowd that filled the assembly parlor.

Frankowiak's Charges
Frankowiak, first to appear before the committee, asserted owners of the games admitted at Milwaukee recently they were gambling devices. He charged magnets were used in the machines to limit the element of skill.

Deputy Police Inspector Hugo Goehlen of Milwaukee said the skill element was negligible. He declared rejection of Frankowiak's bill would open the doors of Wisconsin to racketeers.

"Operators who were thrown out of other states are coming in here," he said.

Police Chief William H. McCormick of Madison called the pinball business "worse than bootlegging." James Killey of the Milwaukee juvenile court mentioned several cases in which he said boys and girls had admitted stealing money to play pinball machines.

Cites "Take" in County
The Rev. Alfred W. Swan, Madison, said he had heard the "take" of the pinball industry in Dane county was $25,000 or $30,000 annually, and in Milwaukee was 10 times that amount.

Joseph Ginsburg of Madison said his son, a newsboy, bought a miniature pinball game to practice up in an attempt to "beat" a board at a store.

Jay, opening the defense, declared the "professional and amateur reformers should clean house" before trying to legislate against pinballs. He said churches use bingo and other games to attract parishioners to social functions, and charged that Frankowiak until a month ago was receiving a share of the profits of a machine in a building he owned in which his son operates a tavern. Frankowiak denied the charge.

Large Investment
Jay said the pinball investment in Wisconsin amounts to $1,540,000, that the 1,250 operators employ 5,000 men, and that machines have been placed in 14,500 business establishments. He opposed the bill as confiscatory and unconstitutional.

Other defenders of the games were Mrs. Carrie Considine, Milwaukee, who said she operated pinball tables, but couldn't "afford to belong to women's clubs and poke her nose into other people's business," Marvin Grandstaff, Madison operator, who said the industry didn't want the nickels of children; William H. Hampel, Jr., Milwaukee, who said the games helped people forget troubles; and Michael Klein, Milwaukee, attorney for the Skill Games Board of Trade, who contended the present gambling laws were adequate and denied operators had ever admitted the games were gambling devices.

The measure was advanced to third reading during a three-hour session of the house last night. It was bitterly opposed by some of the members whose counties would be affected. They contended it would limit the rights of farmers to protect their property against wolves and foxes.

Assemblyman Frank Graess (R), Sturgeon Bay, spokesman on conservation issue, said the bill was necessary to prevent the "bootlegging" of deer and was aimed chiefly at "racketeers."

Graess said the conservation commission for three years has been trying to enforce a rule against carrying guns without permit but there is a question whether it has that authority without legislative approval.

The assembly also ordered a third reading of a bill by Assemblyman (Thomson) R. Richmond Center permitting county recorders to register transmission rights of way for rural electric cooperatives without charge.

The house turned down two individual claims for damages against the state but engrossed a third bill awarding $5,000 to Hilmer Johnson, who was shot by a deputy conservation warden 14 years ago.

Find Nurse Took Poison During Lapse of Memory

Madison — (P)—A coroner's jury decided last night that Miss Janice Parker, 35, head nurse at Norman-dale sanitarium, died Feb. 2 of poison taken during a lapse of memory.

Sanitarium employees testified Miss Parker suffered from severe headaches and that she was "not the type to commit suicide." Superintendent I. B. Shulak said the poison apparently was obtained from the institution's drug room to which Miss Parker had access.

Coroner Edward Fischer closed the hearing after Leon Kurz, who said he was a cousin of the dead woman, charged the inquest had failed to uncover the real facts; Kurz declined to amplify his statement, which, he admitted, was 50 per cent supposition.

Fred Parker, Coldwater, Kans., a brother of the victim, conferred with the coroner this week, but did not attend the inquest.

Advance Bill to Ban Guns During Closed Season

Measure Intended to Protect Deer Goes to Third Reading

Madison — (P)—The Bichler bill prohibiting the carrying of guns in the deer areas during the closed season except by special permit of the conservation commission had the preliminary approval of the assembly today.

The measure was advanced to third reading during a three-hour session of the house last night. It was bitterly opposed by some of the members whose counties would be affected. They contended it would limit the rights of farmers to protect their property against wolves and foxes.

Assemblyman Frank Graess (R), Sturgeon Bay, spokesman on conservation issue, said the bill was necessary to prevent the "bootlegging" of deer and was aimed chiefly at "racketeers."

Recommend State System of Rural Fire Departments

Handrich Proposes Other Groups Should Follow Hortonville Plan

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)
Madison—A system of rural volunteer fire departments modeled on the department of Hortonville was recommended for villages in Wau-paca county and the state by Assemblyman Alvin A. Handrich, Wau-paca county's representative in the assembly, in a discussion of rural fire fighting systems over radio station WHA here Tuesday afternoon. Handrich was interviewed by Raymond Zuehlke, Fremont, secretary to Speaker Paul B. Alfonsi of the assembly, as a part of the state station's legislative program yesterday.

According to Handrich the Hortonville fire brigade has been operating successfully for the last four years and has saved thousands of dollars for the farmers in the towns of Hortonville, Greenville and Ellington. This spring the citizens of Fremont will vote on a proposal to organize a similar system for their village, he said.

Another Setup
Termining the system "bucket brigade new style," Handrich declared that the Fremont system will be "a cooperative enterprise that will make available to every farmer in the area the help of a well equipped department to fight his fires. There would be two fire trucks with large water tanks, and other necessary equipment. The cost will be shared according to the assessed valuation of the communities, which would make the investment very little for each individual."

Under the provisions of the referendum in the spring election, Handrich said, the residents of Fremont, Caledonia and Wolf River will vote for or against a joint system of fire protection.

"They will lead the way for Wau-paca county. Volunteer fire fighting forces as proposed in the Fremont plan represents something more, cooperation. They show the spirit of voluntary and independent association, dear to the heart of every American. These miniature and self-supporting democracies, composed of modern minute men, are banded together on an American principle as old as the town meeting. When the last volunteer company disappears, then and only then can we really begin to fear for the institution of self government," the Marawa legislator maintained.

Vote to Detach Towns From School District
Madison — (P)—The towns of Day and Green Valley, Marathon county, may be detached from the Auburndale Union Free High school district under a bill passed in the assembly today, Feb. 23.

The measure, sponsored by Assemblyman Joseph L. Barber, (P), Marathon, went to the senate for concurrence.

Barber said the townships represent one-ninth of the taxable property in the district. He contended some pupils from the towns would have to travel 28 miles to get to the Auburndale High school and prefer to go to Marshfield or other schools nearer their homes.

Taxpayers Urged To File Reports On Income Early

Assistance Offered at Court House Office Until March 1

An appeal for early return of state income tax blanks from the Assessor's office of the state assessor of income was coupled today with a reminder that offer of help at the courthouse in filling out returns is limited to March 1.

After that date, only questions will be answered so that the greatest number of persons can be given attention. Persons desiring assistance in the details of preparing returns have been requested to call at the assessor of income office before the deadline.

Numerous taxpayers have taken advantage of the assistance offered during the year. The collections of 1936 as a result of early filing, and apparent improved business conditions, during the same period of 1936 shows a decided increase over the collections of the same period of 1935. The personnel of the tax office expects that a large number will request assistance and will receive their returns before March 1, which time the amount of personal exemption will necessarily have to be determined on answering questions early.

Must List Gifts

The taxpayer's attention has been called to the Wisconsin gift tax law governing the gifts made during the year 1936. The individual income tax return for 1936 provides a space in the upper right hand corner, page 1, for information concerning gifts. If you have made or received a gift during the year 1936, you are required to report gifts, from the assessor's office. The amount of exemption allowed, depending on the relationship between the donor and donee, will be found on the reverse side of the gift tax form.

Those required to file returns are single persons with an income of $500 a year or more, a married man with an income of $1,000 or more, and a wife with combined income of $1,000 a year or more, all those acting in a fiduciary capacity as executors, administrators, guardians, agents and so forth, and co-partnerships. All persons who have received a Wisconsin income tax blank must file a return regardless of the amount of their income.

Remit With Return

Remittance for any taxes due must be enclosed with the tax return when it is mailed to the assessor of income office. A 2 per cent discount is allowed if the total taxes are paid in full on or before March 1. If paid on the installment plan, no discount is allowed. The first installment due at the time of filing on or before March 15, must be the least cash of the total taxes and interest, but not less than $5. The remainder of the tax is then due on or before August 15.

Taxpayers are requested to mail in their returns as early as possible to insure their reaching the assessor's office on or before March 15. Because of the big volume of mail coming in during the last few days, returns are often delayed and are subject to a late filing fee of $5, if not filed on or before March 15.

Call Meeting on Cheese Program

Committee to Present Legislative Program at Madison Session

Representatives of Wisconsin's cheese industry who, on Jan. 12, attended a general conference called by the department of agriculture and markets to discuss cheese grading and have been asked by Commissioner F. Schuchman to meet at 10 o'clock a.m. Thursday to hear the report of a committee appointed by the earlier conference to draft a legislative program. R. C. Swanson, county agent, has been notified.

The committee is composed of an American and brick cheese group and representatives of the Swiss cheese industry. The Swiss cheese group last week named William F. B. Bickel, to represent producers and Carl M. J. Monroe, to represent dealers. J. P. Zweifel, Madison, was selected as alternate for Mr. Bickel.

The American and brick cheese group will have full representation at the session at the January session. Representatives of the group are: William F. Bickel, Madison; Carl M. J. Monroe, Madison; J. P. Zweifel, Madison; and J. P. Zweifel, Madison.

Propose Flood Control Regions Under New Plan

Measure Would Separate This Work From That Of Conservation

BY RUBY A. BLACK (Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington — Flood control and conservation in Wisconsin would be under two different authorities, under the terms of a bill establishing seven flood-control regions, introduced by Senator Alben N. Barkley, D., Ky., and Senator Robert J. Bulkley, D., Ohio.

Part of it would be under the Great Lakes-Ohio river authority, including all rivers and their tributaries that flow into the Great Lakes, and all rivers flowing into the Ohio river, except the Tennessee and its tributaries.

The rest of Wisconsin, including the southern and western part, would be under the Mississippi valley authority, which would include all drainage basins which shed their water into the Mississippi river, except the Missouri and the Arkansas basins, which would have their separate authorities, the Ohio, and the Tennessee.

The president previously suggested that there should be about eight regional authorities to deal with flood control, conservation, and public works. The Tennessee Valley Authority already exists.

The purpose of the flood control authorities, as outlined by the bill, would be for "erecting, maintaining, and operating dams, reservoirs, canals, and other works to control destructive flood waters of the rivers of the United States, improving the navigability of such rivers; acquiring by purchase, gift, cession, or condemnation, land, overflow, or marginal lands to be used for cultivating timber, protecting wildlife, conserving and developing natural resources, and setting aside such lands as timber or game preserves or for public parks or recreational areas."

This would include most of the purposes outlined in the president's discussion of the integrated planning of such control and conservation of waters and lands, but not all.

Other regional authorities proposed in the measure are: Atlantic Seaboard; Missouri Valley; Arkansas Valley, including also all rivers flowing into the Mississippi and the Gulf of Mexico south of the Arkansas; Columbia Valley; Colorado Valley, including also all rivers flowing into the Pacific Ocean south of the Columbia system.

Each authority would have a board of directors composed of three members appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate, to be paid annually $10,000 each, for a term of nine years.

The authorities would have the power of eminent domain to acquire land by condemnation or otherwise for purposes of the act.

Before any authority could develop electrical power in connection with the flood control works, it would have to recommend the power project to Congress for its approval.

Madison — Operators of the pinball industry in Wisconsin, opposing a bill before the legislature to outlaw pin tables and similar games, suggested today that the state license and regulate rather than prohibit such devices.

Isadore Jay, Milwaukee, chairman of the Skill Games Board of Trade of Wisconsin, told the assembly committee of excise and fees at a public hearing yesterday: "Let's get some regulation. We welcome regulation."

Jay led the defense after Assemblyman Martin Frankowski, (D), Milwaukee, author of the bill, police officers, teachers, clergymen, and representatives of church organizations labeled pinball games a "terrible menace" to youth.

Opponents of the measure, conceding the tables could be used for gambling purposes as well as other games—contract bridge, bowling and billiards were mentioned—declared present anti-gambling statutes were adequate to prevent law violations.

Applause followed each point of attack and defense before a crowd that filled the assembly parlor.

Frankowski's charges before the committee asserted owners of the games admitted at Milwaukee recently they were gambling devices. He charged magnets were used in the machines to limit the element of skill.

Deputy Police Inspector Hugo Goehlen of Milwaukee said the skill element was negligible. He declared rejection of Frankowski's bill would open the doors of Wisconsin to racketeers.

"Operators who were thrown out of other states are coming in here," he said.

Police Chief William H. McCormick of Madison called the pinball business "worse than bootlegging."

James Killey of the Milwaukee juvenile court mentioned several cases in which he said boys and girls had admitted stealing money to play pinball machines.

Cites "Take" in County The Rev. Alfred W. Swan, Madison, said he had heard the "take" of the pinball industry in Dane county was $2,500,000 or $3,000,000 annually, and in Milwaukee was 10 times that amount.

Joseph Ginsburg of Madison said his son, a newsboy, bought a miniature pinball game to practice up in an attempt to "beat" a board at a store.

Jay, opening the defense, declared the "professional and amateur reformers should clean house" before trying to legislate against pinballs. He said churches use bingo and other games to attract parishioners to social functions, and charged that Frankowski until a month ago was receiving a share of the profits of a machine in a building he owned in which his son operates a tavern.

Large Investment

Jay said the pinball investment in Wisconsin amounts to $1,540,000, that the 1,250 operators employ 5,000 men, and that machines have been placed in 14,500 business establishments. He opposed the bill as confiscatory and unconstitutional.

Other defenders of the games were Mrs. Carrie Considine, Milwaukee, who said she operated pinball tables, but couldn't "afford to belong to women's clubs and poke her nose into other people's business," Marvin Grandstaff, Madison operator, who said the industry didn't want the nickels of children; William H. Hampel, Jr., Milwaukee, who said the games helped people forget troubles; and Michael Klein, Milwaukee, attorney for the Skill Games Board of Trade, who contended the present gambling laws were adequate and denied operators had ever admitted the games were gambling devices.

Advance Bill to Ban Guns During Closed Season

Measure Intended to Protect Deer Goes to Third Reading

Madison — The Bichler bill prohibiting the carrying of guns in the deer areas during the closed season except by special permit of the conservation commission had the preliminary approval of the assembly today.

The measure was advanced to third reading during a three-hour session of the house last night. It was bitterly opposed by some of the members whose counties would be affected. They contended it would limit the rights of farmers to protect their property against wolves and fox.

Assemblyman Frank Graess (R), Sturgeon Bay, spokesman on conservation issue, said the bill was necessary to prevent the "bootlegging" of deer and was aimed chiefly at "racketeers."

Graess said the conservation commission for three years has been trying to enforce a rule against carrying guns without permit, but there is a question whether it has that authority without legislative approval.

The assembly also ordered a third reading of a bill by Assemblyman Thomson (R), Richland Center, permitting county recorders to register transmission rights of way for rural electric cooperatives without charge.

The house turned down two individual claims for damages against the state but engrossed a third bill awarding $5,000 to Hilmer Johnson, who was shot by a deputy conservation warden 14 years ago.

Find Nurse Took Poison

During Lapse of Memory

Madison — A coroner's jury decided last night that Miss Janice Parker, 35, head nurse at Normaldale sanitarium, died Feb. 2 of poison taken during a lapse of memory.

Sanitarium employees testified Miss Parker suffered from severe headaches and that she was "not the type to commit suicide." Superintendent I. B. Shulak said the poison apparently was obtained from the institution's drug room to which Miss Parker had access.

Coroner Edward Fischer closed the hearing after Leon Kurz, who said he was a cousin of the dead woman, charged the inquest had failed to discover the real facts. Kurz declined to amplify his statement, which, he admitted, was 50 per cent supposition.

Fred Parker, Coldwater, Kans., a brother of the victim, conferred with the coroner this week, but did not attend the inquest.

Recommend State System of Rural Fire Departments

Handrich Proposes Other Groups Should Follow Hortonville Plan

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison — A system of rural volunteer fire departments modeled on the department of Hortonville was recommended for villages in Waupaca county and the state by Assemblyman Alvin A. Handrich, Waupaca county's representative in the assembly, in a discussion of rural fire fighting systems over radio station WHA here Tuesday afternoon. Handrich was interviewed by Raymond Zuehlke, Fremont, secretary to Speaker Paul B. Alfonsi of the assembly, as a part of the state station's legislative program yesterday.

According to Handrich the Hortonville fire brigade has been operating successfully for the last four years and has saved thousands of dollars for the farmers in the towns of Hortonville, Greenville and Ellington. This spring the citizens of Fremont will vote on a proposal to organize a similar system for their village, he said.

Another Setup

Termining the system "bucket brigade new style," Handrich declared that the Fremont system will be "a cooperative enterprise that will make available to every farmer in the area the help of a well equipped department to fight his fires. There would be two fire trucks with large water tanks, and other necessary equipment. The cost will be shared according to the assessed valuation of the communities, which would make the investment very little for each individual."

Under the provisions of the referendum in the spring election, Handrich said, the residents of Fremont, Caledonia and Wolf River will vote for or against a joint system of fire protection.

"They will lead the way for Waupaca county. Volunteer fire fighting forces as proposed in the Fremont plan represents something more, cooperation. They show the spirit of voluntary and independent association, dear to the heart of every American. These miniature, self-supporting democracies, composed of modern minute men, are banded together on an American principle as old as the town meeting. When the last volunteer company disappears, then and only then can we really begin to fear for the institution of self government," the Manawa legislator maintained.

Vote to Detach Towns

From School District

Madison — The towns of Day and Green Valley, Marathon county, may be detached from the Auburndale Union Free High school district under a bill passed in the assembly today, 46 to 43.

The measure, sponsored by Assemblyman Joseph L. Barber, (P), Marathon, sent to the senate for concurrence.

Barber said the townships represent one-ninth of the taxable property in the district. He contended some pupils from the towns would have to travel 28 miles to get to the Auburndale High school and prefer to go to Marshfield or other schools nearer their homes.

Opponents argued that it was bad policy to detach territory from a high school district.

Urges One Unit To Combat Crime In Wisconsin

Attorney General Says Organization Should be Non-Partisan

Madison — (P)—Attorney General

Orland S. Loomis, speaking at the first Wisconsin Conference of Crime Control, expressed the hope today that social and law enforcement agencies of the state may be molded into an efficient unit with the single purpose of protecting society's interests.

Such an organization, he counseled, should be divorced from partisanship and its administration should be placed in the hands of civil service personnel. The federal government, he added, has in recent years set a "splendid" example in its measures to control interstate crime.

Loomis' talk sounded the theme to be developed in a three-day discussion of crime control at the University of Wisconsin. Nearly 100 social workers, educators, clergy, men, jurists and law enforcement officials attended the opening session.

Finds Public Aroused

"No one conference," he said, "will ever solve the problem of crime, but this meeting is an excellent expression of public concern for a more effective control of crime."

He emphasized that the purpose of the conference was the organization of numerous state agencies into a coordinated unit.

Charles Y. Birt, secretary of the Madison County union, said agencies dealing with delinquents should substitute for "fear and punishment" a program of "guidance and sympathy." Some 6,000 children pass through Wisconsin juvenile courts each year, he said, and 1,761 are now confined to institutions because of delinquent acts.

The most effective community program to prevent delinquency, Birt added, is to strengthen the agencies that deal with children—the home, the church, the school and the neighborhood. Criminals, he said, develop largely during the childhood and adolescence.

Don't Use Influence

The church, Birt said, fails to exert all the good influence of which it is capable because "those who need it most do not make use of it." He criticized the aloofness of some clergymen to community enterprises.

"A more active participation in community enterprises by clergymen, a wider knowledge of the ways public and private groups can serve the church, and the molding of public opinion from the pulpit would give strength to community programs offering a constructive plan for the use of leisure," he declared.

Question Suspect In New Cleveland Murder Mystery

Latest 'Torso Slaying' Victim Is Believed Identified

Cleveland—Detectives on an intensive search for the sex-crazed maniac blamed for eight Cleveland torso slayings since September, 1934, questioned a man today concerning the disappearance of twice-married Mrs. Anna Zibert.

After a search of missing persons files, police said she was one of two women most closely resembling the latest victim—whose nude torso, severed with surgical skill, was found late yesterday on the Lake Erie shoreline in Cleveland's east side.

No charges had been placed against the suspect, who knew the woman well, detectives said.

The disappearance of Mrs. Zibert, missing since Jan. 15, was reported five days later by her father, Thomas Lukovich. Her physical description and the fact that she was listed as the mother of two children, police said, closely fitted the description given by Coroner Samuel R. Gerber.

Detectives also sought to learn whether Miss Flavia Pilot, 28, who came here from Canton, Ohio, last Friday to stay with her brother, John, could be the eighth victim of the mad slayer.

Miss Pilot vanished the next morning, the brother told detectives, after she was reprimanded for coming to Cleveland unannounced.

In Water Short Time

Police Lieutenant William Sargent said the latest torso apparently had not been in the water more than a day or two before it was discovered only a few miles from where Mrs. Zibert, married a second time four months ago, lived.

One previous victim was found at almost the same spot. The mutilated bodies of five others were left in the desolate Kingsbury run section, several miles away.

The maniac blamed for the eight slayings can be charged only with violation of a health ordinance, Detective Sergeant James Hogan declared today.

"Even if the slayer confessed," Hogan asserted, "that wouldn't help us any. Violation of a health ordinance is the only charge we could place against him."

Although several of the previous seven were identified, Hogan said, no friends or relatives could be found "who could swear from the witness stand that the slain persons had once been living, breathing human beings in good health."

For this reason, he said, no murder charges could now be filed even if the surgically-skilled maniac were captured.

Plan Meeting on Indian Land Plan

County Committee of Five To Confer With Town Of Oneida Officials

A committee of five, named by the Outagamie county board to confer with town of Oneida and federal officials on the proposed purchase by the government of certain Oneida farm lands for Indian use will meet with Oneida town officials Thursday.

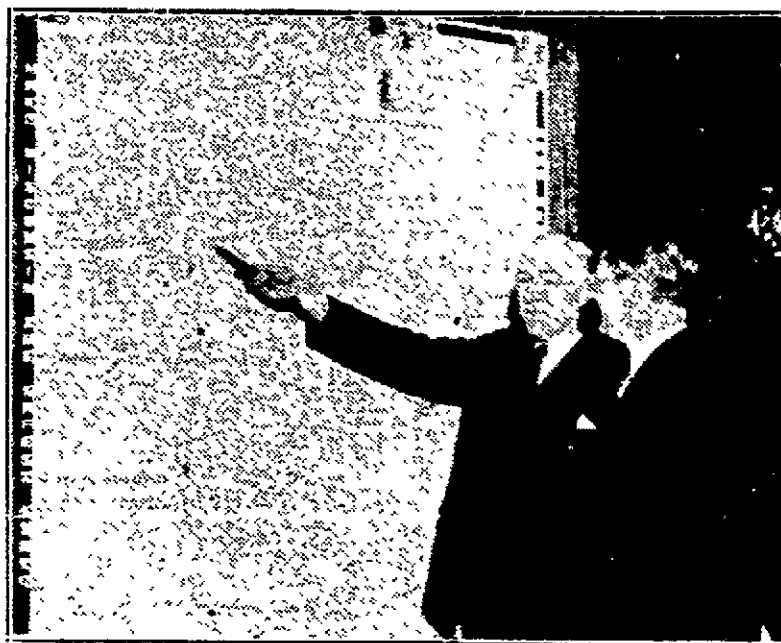

The meeting will include an inspection of lands on which the government now has option and of territory where town officials believe the Indian farms should be located.

The committee, composed of Supervisors George R. Schaefer, Emmett O'Connor and Sylvester Esler of the county board, and Stephen Peters and Percy Silverwood of Oneida, will meet with federal officials some time within the next two weeks.

Farmers to Confer on Electric Power Plans

Rural electrification possibilities will be discussed at a meeting of farmers at the Leman school, town of Maine, at 8 o'clock Friday evening. R. C. Swanson, county agricultural agent, made arrangements for the session.

Map of State Shows Where Fatal Accidents Occur

"Don't be a green dot in 1937." That's the warning of the safety department of the Wisconsin highway commission, for each green dot that goes on the huge map on display in the rotunda of Wisconsin's state capitol represents an automobile fatality. Red dots—794 of them—represent persons killed in automobile wrecks of 1936, green dots are being used to designate 1937 fatalities.

No names appear on this huge spot map, but the dots are placed at the exact point where the fatal accident occurred, as shown by state accident reports filed with the safety department. Every automobile accident in which a fatality, personal injury, or property damage of $50 or more takes place, must be reported within 48 hours to the safety department.

As the dots go on the map for 1937, state highway officials will be watching closely to see if the accidents are occurring at the same locations. If they do, highway engineers will investigate to see if they have failed to build, mark or protect that section of roadway properly.

Relocations, new markings, or installation of traffic lights may follow if they are deemed necessary. The various safety councils in the 71 counties and the division engineers of the state highway commission attempt to anticipate hazardous conditions and get them corrected in advance of accidents, but sometimes the real danger isn't apparent until the dots appear on the huge spot map in the capitol.

The map, the only one of its kind in the state, was prepared by the state highway commission's plan department by photographing the largest available maps of each county, then trimming these maps along county lines and setting them together like pieces of a large jigsaw puzzle. The exact routings of even the smallest town roads thus are found on this map, although they are on no other state maps.

Placing the red dots for 1936 took two weeks, for each had to be as near the actual scene of the accident as possible, since thousands of people from all parts of the state will inspect the map while it is on display in the capitol through 1937.

Milwaukee county, of course, has the largest number of red dots for 1937, with the dots extending out into Lake Michigan for the city's fatalities. In proportion to traffic and population, however, Milwaukee had fewer accidents than many small counties. Rusk county went until December 26, 1936, before having a fatality for the past year. Several counties have not had a fatal accident so far in 1937.

League Refuses To Take Stand On Catlin Bill

Little Chute and Combined Locks Men Oppose Support for Measure

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau) Madison—Despite strong pleas of representatives of larger Wisconsin cities, the League of Wisconsin Municipalities' legislative conference declined Monday to endorse the Catlin bill, which would increase the representation of Appleton and other cities on county boards.

Opposition to endorsement came principally from John VandeYacht and Martin Williams, presidents of the villages of Little Chute and Combined Locks, respectively, who informed the conference that the Outagamie county board last week voted to oppose the measure.

VandeYacht, in a short speech in defense of his position, declared that "the membership of county boards is too large now, and we don't want any more." Asked about the proposal later, VandeYacht explained that he felt the measure, if passed, would give control of the Outagamie county board to the city of Appleton. VandeYacht is the Little Chute representative of the board.

Explaining that he would support any measure which would remove the long time discrimination against cities in county government affairs, Mayor James Law of Madison said the Catlin bill would solve an old problem for his county, where representatives from outside Madison hold a majority on the Dane county board, despite the fact that Madison comprises a majority of the county population.

After a flurry of debate, and continued and vigorous opposition from the Little Chute and Combined Locks officers, the conference decided to take no position on the bill.

Cities of the Fox River Valley, were poorly represented at the conference. Besides Williams, VandeYacht, and John Jedwabny of Menasha, the only valley representative present was Thomas Dwyer, head of the city attorneys division of the League, and composition counsel for the city of Green Bay. Dwyer said he planned to discuss with League leaders a number of bills which are being drafted and will be introduced by Assemblyman Harold Lytle, (D), of Green Bay this week.

Joint Committee Hears Arguments On Disputes Bill

Proposed Revision of Labor Measure Would Avoid New State Board

Madison—The joint finance committee of the legislature heard arguments yesterday on a proposed revision of the Sigman labor disputes bill which would avoid the creation of a new state board by giving the industrial commission more authority to settle labor troubles.

Assemblyman Charles B. Perry (R), Wauwatosa, a member of the finance committee, offered an amendment to eliminate that part of the bill which sets up a full time, three-man state labor relations board subject to appointment by the governor and having an annual appropriation of $50,000.

Perry proposed, instead, that the industrial commission be given the power to administer the labor disputes act and that its appropriation for additional personnel be limited to $15,000 a year.

The amendment was opposed by Joseph Padway, Milwaukee, general counsel for the Wisconsin Federation of Labor, who said if it was adopted he would prefer to see the bill defeated.

Several members of the committee, including Assembly Chairman E. J. Hooley (D), New Glarus, questioned the advisability of establishing a new three-man commission and inquired whether a single commissioner would not be sufficient.

Padway said he believed that one man could handle the job, but that the scope of the work involved would require the time and the judgment of three men.

He contended the industrial commission has plenty of work to do now, that the purpose of the Sigman bill is to define the rights of employees in collective bargaining agreements, and that this function should not be confused with questions of hours, wages and working conditions over which the industrial commission, in some cases, has jurisdiction.

Padway quoted figures listing the cost of strikes in loss of wages in Milwaukee and other Wisconsin cities last year as $6,050,000. He said the state as a whole had suffered a loss of $48,000,000 and the Kohler company strike had cost $1,500,000 alone. He estimated the loss from the recent Milwaukee dairy strikes at more than $100,000 each.

Arthur W. Coppin, representing the Harnischfeger Corp., Milwaukee, the only one who spoke in opposition to the bill, argued that it would not prevent but would foment strikes. He spoke in favor of Perry's amendment.

Bill Offers Support Of Weed Eradication

Madison—A resolution asking congress to pass the bill providing for an appropriation of $50,000,000 for a national weed eradication program was introduced in the state assembly Tuesday by Assemblyman Alvin A. Handrich, (P), Manawa.

Handrich's resolution provided for a matching of Wisconsin funds, at the ratio of one to three, with federal appropriations to carry on a weed elimination program in this state. "Weeds are choking out the farmer," Handrich declared.

The work would be performed by WPA workers, under the terms of the resolution.

They Ask for Recognition and Get Beer, So Sit-Down Strike Is Averted

Manawa—Prompt action and quick thinking on the part of two employers averted a serious sit-down strike right here in Manawa Tuesday. Louis Zemple and Paul Fritz are the local rural mail carriers who serve more than 500 patrons in central Waupaca county.

During the winter months they usually hire several assistants. Recently Lester Stevens and Lawrence Kolosso have been helping Mr. Zemple, while Len Goetz and John Breier help Mr. Fritz.

Waiting for the train to arrive Tuesday morning, the four helpers with Les Stevens as the spokesman approached their bosses. Les issued their ultimatum as follows:

"It's just this way," he told the two carriers. "Here it is the morning after a double holiday. There's certain to be a lot of mail to deliver, the roads are worse than ever after the storm, and we just thought it would be a swell time to start a sit-down strike."

"What are you striking for?" the two employers asked simultaneously.

"Well," Les replied, "we don't want higher wages or fewer working hours or better roads. What we really hope to get is more recognition."

Zemple and Fritz went into conference. It really wouldn't do to get into difficulties with their assistants, what with all the mail, the drifted roads, and over 500 customers waiting since Saturday to find out how the Nebbs were faring.

The letter "A" has stood at the head of the alphabet during the whole of the period that it can be traced historically.

They decided to effect a compromise, if possible.

"It would probably be impossible for us to give you chaps all the recognition you ask for and deserve," they told the strikers, "but would you settle this thing for a glass of beer apiece?"

"That's O. K. by us," the quartet of helpers shouted in unison, and after gulping down a seidel of brew, the task of distributing mail was begun—and finished.

Assembly Again Votes to Kill $5 Auto License Fee

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau) Madison—An unsympathetic assembly Tuesday once more recorded itself definitely opposed to any effort to reduce automobile license fees when reconsideration of the flat $5 fee bill presented by Assemblyman William Rohan (Dem.), Kaukauna, was voted down, 55 to 32. The bill was killed last week, but was brought back on the floor Tuesday morning on the motion of Assemblyman Vernon Thomson, (Rep.) Richland Center.

Rohan led the fight for his bill, while the opposition came principally from the administration forces, led by David Sigman Manitowish, E. D. Hall of Monroe and Arthur Mitt, Alma, leaders of the Progressive bloc in the house.

Rohan criticized Thomas Davlin, chairman of the highway commission, who, appearing before the assembly last week on the needs of his department, cited figures on the loss of highway revenue through a reduction of license fees as proposed by the Kaukauna member.

Rohan feels that discussion of pending legislation by state officers such as Davlin is unjustified. In his remarks yesterday he termed it "a very unusual thing" and, referring to Davlin's fear of loss of revenues to his department, Rohan asked: "Did you ever hear a commissioner admit that he had enough funds for his department?"

Mr. Rohan was aided in his defense of the reduction bill by Assemblyman C. A. Budlong of Marquette, and Albert D. Shumek of Algoma.

Shumek reiterated Rohan's plea that the reduction would benefit "the poor farmer and the laboring man," saying, "many cars have been idle in their garages for the last few years because the owners cannot afford the expense of running them. The farmer and the laborer haven't much time to be traveling on the highway. It is not fair to them that they must bear such a large proportion of the expense of maintaining the highways through their high license fees."

Immediately afterward the assembly adopted a joint resolution by Assemblymen Rohan and William Sweeney, (Dem.), DePere, providing for a memorial to Congress asking for a reduction in the interest and principal payments to a total of three percent annually on farm home loans. An amendment offered by Assemblyman Alvin A. Handrich, (Prog.), Waupaca county, and providing that the loans be made under the terms of the Frazer-Lemke refinancing act, was also adopted.

Rohan maintained that many of his constituents in the second Outagamie county district are not able to meet the payments on their farm and home loans because they are unemployed.

Painters Ordered To Show Proof of Code Compliance

Sheriff's Department Serves Subpenas on 37 In Appleton, Vicinity

The sheriff's department today was serving subpoenas on 37 painters, paper hangers and decorators in Appleton and vicinity, ordering them to appear at a hearing on compliance with provisions of the state fair trade practice code for the industry.

It is expected that about 21 more will be ordered to appear during the one of the hearings to be conducted at the courthouse Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The subpoenas instruct those named to appear and "give evidence in the matter of compliance" with the fair trade practice regulations, and to bring with them all records of contracts, wages paid, receipts, costs and similar data which may have a bearing on the matter.

Claude A. Downes, Madison, deputy trade practice commissioner, will be in charge of the hearings and said they were to be held in an effort to determine the basis for various charges of price cutting and failure to observe code working hour regulations.

Mercury to Stay Above Zero Mark

Unsettled, Mostly Cloudy Is Forecast for Thursday

Somewhat unsettled weather is forecast for Appleton and vicinity tonight and Thursday. It will be mostly cloudy, and there will be little change in temperature, the weatherman states.

Appleton was brushed by a light snow early this morning but the skies partly cleared later to give intermittent glimpses of the sun. The mercury at noon was up to 14 degrees above zero.

Maximum and minimum temperatures of 19 and 8 degrees were recorded in the last 24 hours preceding 9 o'clock this morning at the power plant of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company. The minimum temperature was recorded at 7 o'clock this morning.

Highest and lowest temperatures yesterday were: Phoenix 28, Abilene 76, Duluth 4 degrees below zero and Devils Lake 2 below.

Preserve Private Woods, Broughton Asks Farmers

Sheboygan—C. E. Broughton, Democratic national committeeman, called to farmers throughout the nation today to conserve their small private woods through a planting program by their local county agricultural agent.

Accclaiming the conservation planting being done by CCC workers, Broughton said:

"There is one thing we are losing sight of—the rapid disappearance of wooded areas on farms. It is pathetic to see the little forest disappearing and nothing come to rebuild them. The winter season finds the farmer removing the last stand of timber on his farm and making no effort to rebuild for the generations that are to follow.

"A program should be inaugurated by the county agents throughout the United States whereby assistance would be given in replanting these areas with seedlings that in a few years will take the place of trees cut down. The government can not step in and do this work. It must be the farmer's own choosing."

Favor Higher Wages In Street Department

Wage increases for employees of the street department effective March 1 will be recommended to the common council at a meeting of the street and bridge committee yesterday afternoon at the city hall. The increases will be recommended to bring the wage scale of the department in line with those in other departments in which adjustments were made by the council recently.

Child Is Born in Car on Snowswept Country Highway

Owen, Wis.—(A)—Born in an automobile on a snowswept country road Monday night, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Gillard nestled beside his mother at the Charles Haas home south of here today, none the worse for its chilly reception into a wintry world.

The child was born after Dr. J. W. Johnson, a Winnebago physician, the child's father, and two neighbors, Justin McCarty and Adolph Jackson, had battled drifts for three hours to negotiate three of the nine miles between the Gillard home and the Owen hospital to which they attempted to bring Mrs. Gillard.

Mother and son were wrapped in blankets and taken to the Haas home, where they will remain for the next 10 or 11 days. Neither suffered bad effects.

Compensation Is Sought by Worker For Eye Injury

Five Cases Being Heard by Wisconsin Industrial Commission

Five cases under the workmen's compensation act were being heard today by the Wisconsin Industrial Commission at the city hall.

The case of Elizabeth Close, 810 S. Pearl street, New London, who is seeking compensation from the Religious Hospitalers of St. Joseph, New London, was the first heard. The applicant claimed she dislocated her knee while working at New London on Oct. 19, 1936.

Willis Schuler, Combined Locks, versus the Combined Locks Paper company was the second case heard by the commission. Schuler claims he suffered industrial blindness of his left eye as a result of an accident at the mill April 11, 1936. He was struck by a flying piece of metal.

Two cases involving Appleton men were among the cases heard today. Frank Ponschock, 141 S. Madison street, seeks compensation from the Appleton Woolen Mills for an injury he received in an accident at the mill on Nov. 10, 1933. He claims he suffered a cracked jawbone in the accident which occurred while he was running a steam-line.

The other local case, which was scheduled for this afternoon, is William Deane, 701 S. Duellier street, versus Patten Paper company. He seeks compensation for a strain he claims he suffered from hard work on Oct. 24, 1936.

Harold Berg, Kimberly, seeks compensation for an injured back which he claims was incurred while in the employ of the James Leck Construction company at Neenan on Aug. 11, 1936. A hoist fell on his back, he claims.

It Is Said--

THAT if a tramp who obtained a coat at the home of a certain Appleton attorney Sunday will return, his chances of getting the pants and vest are pretty good.

The attorney was taking his regular Sunday afternoon nap when his young son answered the door bell and heard, with sympathy, a request by a tramp for some cast off clothing. The young boy asked the tramp about it and she told him not to give away anything of his father's without first asking permission. The boy's sympathy for the tramp apparently combined unfortunately with a reluctance to awaken his father.

When the attorney awakened some time later and heard the story, he investigated. The coat of his best suit was gone.

That although Appleton High school basketball managers scurried around for bottles of rosin last night so that St. Mary's players from Menasha wouldn't be bothered by the slippery floor, the janitor at the armory put a stop to the generosity with a word of "no more rosin on the floor." The players did benefit from the little use of the powder, however, much of the unnecessary sliding was eliminated.

Oshkosh Speaker to Tell of Flood Area

Conditions in the flood area will be described by Captain Herb Bowyer, Oshkosh, at an open meeting at 7 o'clock tonight at the Salvation Army temple. Mr. Bowyer visited the flood area for more than a week and has given lectures throughout the valley on the subject. The meeting is sponsored by the Appleton unit of the Salvation Army.

Ballard Interest in the Establishment

A. A. Babcock was affiliated with the firm in March 1883. In succeeding years, William Tesch and Benjamin Baird were associated with Mr. Schlafer and the firm became known as Schlafer Baird and Tesch until 1896 when Mr. Tesch's interest was purchased. Mr. Baird left the firm a year later. Mr. Schlafer interested James A. Wood in the business and later acquired sole ownership of the firm.

In addition to his interest in church, and civic affairs, Mr. Schlafer had as a hobby the operation of a large farm on the north shore of Lake Winnebago. He also traveled extensively.

Survivors are one son, Wilmer Schlafer, Appleton; two daughters, Mrs. Margaret DeLong and Mrs. Karl Hansen, Appleton, six grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The body will be brought here from Orangeburg but plans for the funeral had not been completed this morning.

Loyalist Troops Launch Offensive In Spanish Strife

Insurgents Report 2,500 Government Attackers Slain at Oviedo

By the Associated Press

Spanish insurgents reported 2,500 government attackers slain at Oviedo today while other government forces "tired of the defensive" pushed widespread offensive operations.

Conflicting reports were received on the fighting at Oviedo.

Dispatches from Bayonne, on the Franco-Spanish frontier, said government infantrymen battled their way to the center of the city.

But General Francisco Franco's high insurgent command, reporting rout of the Oviedo government troops, termed it the "most crushing defeat of the civil war."

The government has been besieging Oviedo, near the bay of Biscay, for months. There has been intense fighting in the very streets of the city for four days.

Hand-to-Hand Clash

Reports from Madrid stated government and insurgent troops were locked in hand-to-hand combat for possession of strategic Pinzaron hill on the Jarama river front southeast of Madrid. The reports said Madrid defenders held a large part of the hill, from which they shelled the city with heavy artillery. The Valencia highway was blasted away at the vital Valencia highway for many days.

Government guns blasted at other insurgent positions on the Madrid front. One thousand insurgents were reported slain in a government attack on a concentration of troops about 60 miles northeast of Madrid.

The government also said an insurgent push toward the Mediterranean between Valencia and Barcelona had been checked 20 miles north of Viver, 34 miles northwest of Valencia, temporary seat of the government.

Insurgents reported three government attacks in scattered sectors of Madrid had been repulsed, failing to move General Franco's men.

Five Britons Hurt As Shell Bursts Aboard Warship

Missile Apparently From Spanish Anti-Aircraft Gun Firing on Planes

London—(A)—The admiralty announced today five members of the crew of the British battleship Royal Oak, including several ranking officers, had been injured when a shell burst on the quarterdeck during the Spanish insurgent air bombardment of Valencia yesterday.

The shell apparently came from a Spanish government anti-aircraft gun which was firing on the attacking planes. The planes dropped incendiary bombs on the front section of Valencia, with damage described in Spanish advices as "slight."

Captain T. E. Drew, three other officers and one seaman aboard the Royal Oak were slightly hurt by shell splinters. None, it was announced, was "incapacitated." Later the battleship put out to sea.

It was the second such incident in the last two weeks. On Feb. 15, it was announced the British destroyer Havock and Gypsy had fired on a plane, believed to have been an insurgent craft, which tried to bomb them near Cape Tenex, off the Algerian coast.

Authorized sources said the British government contemplated no protest, since the incident, technically speaking, was "more or less an act of God."

They explained the Royal Oak was lying just outside Valencia harbor at the time of the bombardment, and that there was, obviously, no Spanish intention to damage it.

Don't Want Any Foreign Competition In Strip-Teasing, Impresario Says

Washington—(A)—Herbert Minsky, baldish impresario of burlesque, gave the house immigration committee today the facts about the "strip-tease" and art.

"Stipping" said Minsky gravely, "is definitely an American art."

Appearing before the committee in behalf of a bill to restrict entry of foreign actors and musicians, he said:

"As you gentlemen probably know burlesque consists of comedy and strip-tease acts."

The strip-tease is that form of entertainment in which the comely entertainer removes most of—if not all—her clothing. Minsky said that "strange as it may seem" this requires training and rhythm.

Minsky experienced no difficulty in obtaining domestic talent for his shows, he said.

"There is no need whatever for foreign talent."

"You mean you don't want any foreign competition in strip-teasing?" interposed Chairman Dickstein (D-N.Y.).

"That's right," replied Minsky.

Asked of burlesque theatres had not been on the "down grade," Minsky replied:

"Burlesque is very popular in most of the major cities."

He said competition from movies and other amusements had hurt some.

"You haven't got any strip-tease in the movies, have you?" asked Representative Millard (R-N.Y.).

"Not yet," replied Minsky.

Questions 'Terms' Under Court Plan

Beloit Senator Stresses Financial Angle in Address

Madison—(A)—Senator Maurice Coakley (R), Beloit, declared today the main issue in Governor LaFollette's judicial retirement plan is whether the state wants to inaugurate a policy of pensioning state employees "upon such handsome terms."

The governor proposed retirement at half pay of supreme court justices and circuit judges after they reach the age of 65. The high court justices receive $10,000 a year, the circuit judges $8,000.

Coakley, in a radio address, stressed the financial question as contrasted with a dispute over President Roosevelt's supreme court plan. Coakley said Wisconsin judges are the highest paid individuals in state service, pointing out that the electorate may retire them "if the people feel that these judges may have become stale."

The Beloit senator assailed the Roosevelt proposal on the ground that since the president controls congress, "if he can bring the supreme court to his knees, he will be the judge of his own power."

Mrs. Letha Lester Facing Trial for 1st Degree Murder

May be Heard in Current Term of Circuit Court At Manitowoc

Manitowoc—(A)—Mrs. Letha Lester, the spurned wife in a love triangle, was held in jail today for a circuit court trial on a charge of the first degree murder of her husband, Earl, a 43-year-old tavernkeeper.

The prosecutor said the trial of the first woman accused of murder in the history of Manitowoc county probably would come up in the term of court now in session.

Witnesses testified in a packed courtroom at a preliminary hearing before Municipal Judge Osuld T. Bredesen yesterday that Mrs. Lester, 33, admitted shooting her husband Feb. 14 after following him to a roadhouse where she found him with another woman.

The other woman, Mrs. Kash Neuberger, waitress at the "Roadhouse," was held as a material witness. Judge Bredesen reduced her bond from $5,000 to $2,000.

Deputy Sheriff Gene Spavechek testified that while Sheriff Norman Berkedal was summoning the coroner to the scene of the killing Mrs. Lester said to him:

"Maybe I should have killed him. It would have been better if I had taken my own life instead of someone else's."

The sheriff testified earlier that Mrs. Lester told him she had shot Lester and added: "He was no good."

Lester's body a bullet hole in the neck was found lying along the highway north of the "Roadhouse," was hidden in a snowbank nearby.

Authorities who were summoned to a farmhouse by Mrs. Lester said she told them she had suspected her husband of unfaithfulness for some time and decided to check up on his associations.

They said she admitted following him to the roadhouse between here and Grand Haven on the night of Feb. 13. There, she said, she found him with Mrs. Neuberger. A reconciliation was reached at the place but on the drive back here the husband and wife began quarreling.

It was during the quarrel, authorities contend, that Mrs. Lester drew the pistol and shot her husband below the ear.

At the preliminary hearing a Manitowoc Hardware company employee testified that when he sold the weapon to Mrs. Lester on Feb. 11, she told him she needed it for protection at the tavern.

Eight clubs will enter a drama contest, it was decided, and finals will be held April 23. The 4-H club orchestra also will enter competition and will seek a number of new members, Dumond said.

Miss Lora Kluge was named club reporter and will be in charge of a 4-H club publication for the county.

Two Measures Ask Civil Service for Beverage Tax Body

Thomson Clashes With Progressive House Members on Issue

Madison—(A)—Two bills to put the 100 employees of the state beverage tax division under civil service were sent to the joint finance committee today after a clash between Assemblyman Vernon Thomson (R), Richland Center, and Progressive members of the house.

Thomson, author of the first bill, which he introduced early in the session, charged that administration leaders were trying to "take the division off the pie counter."

"Every day around the treasurer's office there is a line of men trying to carry the gravy train as it goes by," he said.

Assemblyman Edwin Blomquist (P), Adams, replied that Progressive leaders are in favor of the civil service plan, but that it should be given an adequate public hearing.

Action Delayed

Thomson failed by a vote of 32 to 42 to get the action on his bill today. It will be heard by the finance committee along with an administration measure introduced this morning on behalf of Governor LaFollette.

Both measures ask removal of the division from the treasurer's office to the tax commission, but the administration bill delays the operation of civil service until next July. E. J. Hoelsy (P), New Glarus, assembly chairman of the finance group, contended it would be impossible to effect the change immediately because competitive examinations would have to be arranged and advertised.

The assembly approved Governor LaFollette's requests for two legislative committees to assist in drafting bills for the reorganization of state departments and to study the report of the citizens' welfare committee which soon will be made public.

It also concurred in and sent to the governor a senate bill appropriating $6,000 to the board of control and $15,000 to the state board of vocational education to match federal aids. This money will permit the board of control to continue its sewing projects and will assure further assistance to 300 vocational students throughout the state.

Seek Seed Loans For "Forgotten" Farmers in State

Congressmen Want Action For Relief in Drought Stricken Areas

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington — An audience with Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace is being sought by Congressmen Bernard J. Gehrman of Mellen and Merlin Hull of Black River Falls, in an effort to solve the feed and seed loan problems of a certain group of drought-stricken Badger farmers. Senator Duffy has already discussed the problem with the president.

They pointed out that in their districts about 75 per cent of the farmers are ineligible for loans from the Resettlement administration because of Farm Credit administration red tape.

The fifty million dollars recently appropriated for feed and seed loans, Gehrman said, is available only to those who can offer security. Most of the farmers in their districts, Gehrman said, are bound by the FCA which already has chattel mortgages on their stock.

Termining this group of farmers, nearly all of whom suffered in last summer's drought, the "forgotten farmers of the country," Gehrman said that they are the ones who managed to string along without going on relief, and thus that channel of federal assistance is closed to them.

Tired of fruitless conversations with many department officials which never seem to get anywhere, Gehrman said that he and Hull hope to see Secretary Wallace to find out just what he intends to do "for the forgotten farmer," to learn what type of legislation, if any, is necessary to make loans available to that group; and to urge him to cut out the red tape. Unless the government comes to their aid, he said, thousands of Badger cattle either will starve or be sold below value, and many farmers will be forced to go on relief.

So drastic is the problem in Shawano and Marathon counties that County Agents C. J. Baumeister and William Rogen came to Washington to add their voices to protests and requests.

They have conferred with W. W. Alexander, Resettlement administrator, and the Badger delegation.

Although Outagamie county is not in the drought area, there are a few needy farmers in the county unable to obtain seed loans, R. C. Swanson, county agent, said today. To obtain such an emergency loan, a farmer must have exhausted other sources of credit, but if he is unable to provide any security, no loan is granted, Swanson explained. If seed loan terms are made more liberal, he said, it would prove a benefit to these farmers in Outagamie county as well as to those in the drought area.

Falls on Ice Have Cost Thousands This Winter

Appleton pedestrians paid thousands of dollars this winter for the questionable privilege of falling down and breaking their bones on icy streets, walks, porch steps and driveways. Records indicate, however, that they did the same thing last winter and even last summer.

With slippery footing the rule for weeks on end, the 1936-37 winter has won a bad reputation for causing pedestrian accidents that have resulted in broken arms, legs, collar bones and what not.

Whether more fractures were caused by such falls this winter than last, however, is definitely debatable. More than that, some competent authorities maintain that in winter, when people notice and complain about all the extra walking and driving hazards, there are fewer fractures than there are in the summer and fall when streets and walks are as clean as a hound's tooth but other factors are present to contribute to such accidents.

To prove it, one way or another, is something else again. Two physicians reported that summer and fall provided more fracture cases than all the hazards of winter, pointing out that outdoor construction, automobile accidents, rigorous farm work and outdoor athletics in the warmer months more than offset the hazards of slippery footing in winter.

No Increase
Another physician said the number of fractures is about the same in summer or winter and added that in spite of the long siege of ice on roads and walks this winter there were no more fractures during the 1936-37 season than in the winter of 1935-36 and probably even a few less.

This angle was supported by still another physician. Both pointed out that while the condition was not as continuous last winter as this year, there were icy streets a year ago and people were falling down and hurting themselves as frequently if not more frequently than they are now.

The very length of the ice siege this year, they said, has helped reduce the number of accidents. Both motorists and pedestrians, they said, apparently are more conscious of the danger and are exercising caution accordingly.

Don't Agree
Two other physicians who set many broken bones, did not agree. Both said they handled more such cases in winter than in summer and that the current winter has contributed to more injuries due to falls than did the winter of 1935-36. One said "a few more" and the other "considerably more."

That fractures due to falls this winter cost the victims thousands of dollars is easily established. Physicians point out at the outset that in many cases they receive nothing at all for making a call, using their automobile and time, and setting a fracture. In some other cases where indigent patients are treated, the physicians may receive only $15 for their work from the municipality or county.

A person who breaks his arm will if the break is not too bad, pay from $25 to $50 for reduction of the fracture and such other treatment as he may require. The figure is average.

Should he break the arm at the elbow or suffer a compound fracture or have some other added grief the treatment is not as simple and he'll have to pay more.

Hip Breaks Costly
Should he suffer a simple break of the lower leg, he might get by for $35 to $50 but probably not. Fractures of the lower leg sometimes cost from $50 to $100 while fractures of the upper leg generally start at $50 and go up rapidly. If the fracture is at the hip, the treatment is more expensive, $75, $100 and up.

An x-ray examination, sometimes required, costs about $5 or more.

All this doesn't include loss of wages or salary for the accident victim, cost of extra help or special care.

There were 198 fracture cases recorded at St. Elizabeth hospital in 1935 and 172 in 1936, but because hospitalization is not required in many fracture cases treated at homes or at physicians' offices, the record doesn't provide a complete picture.

Assuming that there have been 150 fracture cases in the city during the last eight or nine weeks and the average cost of treatment was from $15 to $50, the expense for the accident victims mounts immediately to somewhere between $2,250 and $7,500. If complete figures could be obtained, including all costs, the total might be considerably higher.

72,000 Persons in City Shopping Area

Appleton merchants have a potential customer list of 72,000 persons, shopping area charts constructed by members of the retail sales training course at the vocational school show. Statistical data and other information needed for the survey was obtained from chamber of commerce files, Clarence Scherer, instructor, said.

The city's shopping area extends 20 miles to the east, 30 miles to the north, 35 miles to the west and 6 miles to the south, according to Mr. Scherer. Each student constructed his own chart and listed populations of the many communities in the region. There are about 39 villages and cities each with a population of more than 250 persons, in the area.

Nine Whooping Cough Cases Found in Week

Only nine new cases of whooping cough and seven of chicken pox were reported last week by Claude Greisch, deputy health officer.

There are now 45 cases of whooping cough and 17 of chicken pox under quarantine.

Wheeler Thinks Work Should be Done by District Attorneys

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington—Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Montana Democrat who ran for vice president on the ticket with the late Senator Robert M. LaFollette in the latter's 1924 campaign for the presidency, is annoyed because the Resettlement Administration is spending $500,000 to retain lawyers all over the country instead of having its land acquisition work done by the United States district attorneys.

In Wisconsin, the following lawyers are engaged by the Resettlement Administration at $3,000 a year:

William H. Frawley, Eau Claire; Byron B. Conway, Wisconsin Rapids; Vincent P. Davis, Hayward; Harry J. Allen, Milwaukee.

"A lawyer should not be paid three or four or five thousand dollars a year for part-time work, or for a third of his time, or for a fourth of his time, when we have district attorneys who are supposed to devote practically all their time to their official duties," Wheeler said.

He admitted that the district attorneys might have to engage temporary help in cases of extra work caused by RA land acquisition, but he thought they should be full-time employees of the district attorney's offices.

A TASTE OF THIS MAY BE ENOUGH

The Governor of Indiana declared martial law at Anderson when rioting broke out in the labor dispute.

We recommend all Americans to take a sip of this procedure. It will put us in a better frame of mind to make sensible appraisals concerning everything about us.

Various definitions may be found in the books for martial law, but for all practical purposes it is no law at all. Phrased otherwise it is the word of the man in charge, whoever he may be, and its enforcement is entrusted to men in uniform with cartridge belts and rifles upon which gleam things called bayonets.

In Indiana the man in charge was a Colonel. He immediately resolved himself into a state legislature. He made laws by dictating them to one who set them up on a typewriter. They were published by posting on corners of the town. If uncertainty existed as to their meaning it was just too bad for the one who misunderstood them.

For awhile the government at Berlin was moved to Anderson, somewhat softened, it is true, because American military men are imbued with the traditions of this country and are not trained in stomping the chests of others or in enjoying throwing people roughly into the hoosegow.

But look a little closer at Anderson, take a pre-view of the sort of government we do not want but can avoid only by the strictest sort of adherence to "fundamental principles."

Working men were arrested by the military. They were put behind the bars, what was the charge? Whose business is that, anyway? We want bail. Oh, yeah. We wish to send for relatives or get the advice of a lawyer! Sez, you!

The military at Anderson performed what Herr Hitler calls "protective arrest" which assumes that a favor is being done the arrested person—as though to soften the blow.

Down in Anderson these American men, so arrested, literally frothed at the mouth. Their friends, hearing of their arrest engaged a lawyer. He went to call on them. The sheriff in charge of the jail said he could not even permit the lawyer to get a sight of them because he was under orders from the Colonel. The lawyer went to see the Colonel. He found that a Colonel cannot be seen every day. Closed doors confronted him. Guards stood at the side of the doors. They wanted to know who he was and what was his business. Then they just shook their heads. The lawyer stomped out. He would get justice, he would. What sort of a country was this anyway? He went to the Circuit Judge who has authority to order a sheriff to permit interviews with prisoners. But the judge shrugged his shoulders. What can a judge do with a Colonel? The answer is a plain one, he can do exactly nothing. That is putting the courts where they belong.

So the prisoners were held in "durance vile". They heard the short, sharp steps of the guard. Food was brought to them in their plain quarters. The rest was a blank. No chance to be admitted to bail. No opportunity to get witnesses. No consultation with counsel. Just the suffocation of blank walls.

We can imagine how these prisoners raged. But they are as spoiled children. They have been brought up on the sweets of democracy. They have only known a government whose first business is to insure liberty, provide every safeguard against misconduct of officers, and protect every avenue of fair hearing.

And now, with only the first appearance of the grim visaged dictator they complain. Cannot they "take it"? They have had an opportunity, afforded to few of us—a chance to know by personal experience how valuable beyond the descriptive power of words are our liberties, and how impossible it is to obtain or protect them—when rulers can paralyze the arm of the courts.

Whenever our people get really tired of democracy let us give every community just ten days of martial law so we may be shocked into an appreciation of the goodness of what we have.

IN DEFENSE OF DEMOCRACY

History and political philosophy are prime subjects of discussion whenever educators talk shop. Perhaps that is because there always is disagreement concerning methods of teaching the related subjects.

In a more perfect world the teaching of history could be made a powerful guarantor of peace. Such teaching would acquaint the youth of all lands with the splendid story of man's progress. It would not gloss over the instances of man's selfishness and inhumanity but it would show that the greatest setbacks to man's progress have been the wars that have been fought and the hatreds that have been fostered.

Educators who are worthy of the name know this to be true. But educators are not always free agents. History textbooks reflect the attitudes of political leaders. The German schoolboy learns that all history is proof that Aryan supremacy is not to be denied. The Italian schoolboy learns that Fascism is the natural development in the progress of the greatest race. Soviet textbooks teach that all history is the record of the struggles of the worker against the exploiter.

How, then, shall history be interpreted for the American schoolboy? Certainly the American tradition is as worthy of perpetuation as are the traditions of more selfish peoples. If political leaders are to mold the minds of youth, American democracy has a like right and a like obligation.

Every right-thinking American believes this to be true. American educators have not less an obligation to defend the principles of democracy than have the educators whose attitudes are molded by the iron will of the dictators.

Ours is a government of, by and for the people. Our schools are our creation. Because this is so, we have a right to demand that our educators shall teach the principles of democracy.

In this, we are not unreasonable. Such an attitude is imperative if we are to maintain our integrity.

MR. FORD FINDS SOME GNOMES

Mr. Ford warns the country that international financiers are supporting the organization of labor in American industries so as to get control and kill competition. Thus the recent strikes he puts at the door of international bankers.

There is no reason why Mr. Ford should be denied a bogey. Since international bankers have been blamed for everything from floods to measles we are glad to see Mr. Ford pin another badge of shame upon their broad and deep chests. It tends to show that Mr. Ford is democratic.

But America's trouble over labor problems is very evident when a man of Mr. Ford's standing can make such an extreme and unique statement. And the situation is further emphasized when we see the LaFollette Committee exposing the misdeeds of employers but never saying a word about the racketeers on labor's side, some of whom have been extensively exposed in court trials.

It cannot be said that the difficulty is entirely politics. And whether capital or labor first started improper methods against the other would be as difficult to solve as which originated first, the chicken or the egg, and no more valuable after the solution.

Some day, maybe we should call it "the sweet bye and bye," capital and labor, engaged with the extremes in both camps, may get together long enough to draw up a comprehensive and constructive code of rules or morals to govern their relations.

It has always appeared to us that in no other way can we get rid of hobgoblins like international bankers, and racketeers, real or imaginary. There are enough practical heads to run industries and enough other practical heads to work in them to realize that the froth from both sides is hiding the stream.

A FINANCIAL ROAR

When the lion roars, the lesser beasts slink to cover. Here is one possible explanation for armament plans which otherwise seem fantastic. What if the British Lion is roaring for moral effect, when the government votes $7,500,000,000 for army, navy and air fleet in the next five years?

Such expenditure would impose an almost intolerable burden on a nation already indebted and taxed to an extent unknown in America. Especially so if, as announced, the government expects to pay these armament bills currently. The whole five years' bill would amount to nearly $1,000 per family, in addition to the present heavy taxes to carry the vast debt incurred by the World war and subsequent reconstruction.

Britain has long been policeman for Europe. Lately she has been inclined to shirk her police work and attend strictly to her own business. As a result, things have got out of hand, as anyone can see from the Ethiopian failure, the Spanish mess and Germany's treaty-tearing and rearmament. Suppose now John Bull is getting back on the job, prepared to go as far as necessary to restore international order, but hoping he won't have to go the whole way. And suppose the bad boys of Europe decide that he means business.

The situation really seems to look better already.

A recent poll by a London literary review disclosed the three most popular authors in England are Bernard Shaw, H. G. Wells and Lord Dunsany.

It is estimated more than $250,000,000 will be spent on industrial research in the United States during 1937.

NOW that Mrs. Simpson is being pursued by a Greek gentleman—anyway, that's what we're informed—named Zographos, I am getting scared . . . she did her share of empire-rocking in England, and, while Greece is not the most important nation on earth, it is likely that if she can cause trouble in England she can also cause it in Greece—even though she is being pursued in France—and the last war was started in some place you rarely hear about . . . you can never tell but what Mrs. Simpson might get it into her head to come back to the United States after all . . . and if she comes back to the United States, there is no telling what might happen . . .

THEY EVEN USE KUTZ'S STYLE

Jonah:

I get a kick out of: Kutz throwing a newspaper on a bus floor just to see if anyone would pick it up. Marge's letters and subtle hints. "Boscoe" (R.A.), the high school team's favorite bus driver. That drunk who smashed up his car twice last Friday night and then smashed it right into the garage door when he tried to get in.

I could do without: Jack Benny and his oft-repeated promise to play the "Bee". Radio comedians in general.

Open letter to Kutz: Do you realize that you slam a high school paper column one week and then throw bouquets to its author the next. You might offer the high school blonde, "Tiny," your seat in the bus once in awhile instead of wishing you could play a guitar.

The appointment of Hunk Anderson as line coach at the University of Michigan, while eminently sane, is still beyond belief. Your correspondent comes from a section of the country where there are many Michigan alumni and lots of Notre Dame men about. Having heard members of each faction discourse at considerable length on the merits of one football tradition and the demerits of the other, I still don't believe it.

It's as though Prexy Roosevelt appointed John D. M. Hamilton to the post of postmaster general.

OPEN LETTER TO THE WIFE

Mrs. Jonah,
 Dear Madam:

I would recommend that you terminate your visit in Milwaukee as soon as possible because I am sure that your mother needs complete rest and relaxation and with you around, she is constantly on the go.

Devotedly,
 J.

P.S.: The milkman is still leaving milk and we're out of coffee and those doughnuts are getting stale and the can opener is busted and you should see the dishes that are piling up. The dog is lonesome and hungry and so am I and besides, I am getting a slight attack of indigestion from that can of hash I ate. Or was it hash? I still see a can of it in the cupboard and we seem to be out of prepared dog food. Were there two cans of hash or what did I do? Please hurry home and straighten things out. Your mother is a very nice person and all of that but what about your duty to your own home?

WHEN GRANDMA VISITS

My Grandma has come for a visit, and she is having the best time with Dady and me. She sings me old songs, and she rocks Brother, too!
 (That's something my Mother won't let Daddy do)
 And she laughed as she said to my Mother today:
 "YOU can unspoil him when I go away!"

My Grandma bakes cookies, and I crave a taste! A gingerbread man's the reward for my haste. When running from school, there is Grandma to greet.

Her welcome is warm, and her kisses are sweet! Then Mother frowns slightly, to hear Grandma say:
 "YOU can unspoil her when I go away!"

She bakes coffee bread, and she cooks with such joy.

The dishes my Daddy enjoyed when a boy. Her food is so different, maybe he'll mind. When we must go back to the regular kind. I said so to Mother, and heard Grandma say:
 "YOU can unspoil him when I go away!"

I whispered to Daddy: "It must have been fun. When you were a boy, and my Grandma's spoiled son;
 With gingerbread men every day for a treat—"
 He winked as he said: "It was MY Grandma. Sweet."

Who'd a bad thing for me, and to YOUR Grandma say:
 "YOU can unspoil him when I go away!"

WHY NOT A STAMP IN HONOR OF THE MAN WHO PAYS FOR IT ALL?

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY M. D.
 Noted Physician and Author

"CURES" THAT IMPEDE RECOVERY

Manifestation of the first symptoms of what purports to be a "cold" is the signal to begin taking a favorite "cold cure," in the belief and practice of many laymen. This popular practice, in my opinion, accounts for many prolonged serious illnesses which might be short and mild if properly treated.

As a rule popular "cold cures" contain acetanilide, phenacetin, aspirin (acetyl-salicylic acid), or some related coaltar derivative. These drugs are sense-deadeners—they temporarily dull sense of pain, fatigue, ache, anxiety, worry. So far as I can learn they have no real medical or curative value, and they are likely to weaken the heart, destroy red blood corpuscles and interfere with the oxygen-carrying function of the blood. In emergencies the use of such pain-killers is justifiable, I think; at any rate I'd take a dose or two of aspirin or something of the kind myself if I were in unendurable distress. But in a critical time when one may need every resource to wage a battle with feverishness to open the battle by clubbing oneself on the head. Remember, heaven only knows what anybody may be coming down with when he purports to have the first symptoms of "a common cold." No physician will dispute this assertion.

As people slowly become cognizant of the dangers and limitations of such self-treatment they resort more and more to inhalants, sprays or drops as remedies for colds (pronounced kree, meaning any Common Respiratory Infection in the communicable stage of invasion before its specific character can be diagnosed). These local remedies contain cocaine, adrenaline, ephedrine or other potent vasoconstrictor. The application of such a medicament produces constriction of the minute vessels in the inflamed and swollen mucous membrane, with consequent shrinking, which "opens" the nose and gives a period of comfortable breathing and freedom from secretion. But presently follows an after-effect, relaxation, paresis or partial paralysis of the vasomotor, and even greater discomfort than before. Each successive application of the medicament gives a rather shorter period of relief and a rather more marked after-effect. Incidentally, if inflammation is present, such treatment interferes with leucocytosis, that is, the migration of white blood corpuscles (phagocytes, scavenger cells) from the minute vessels into the infected tissue where they ingest and destroy the invading bacteria. Thus the unnaturally powerful remedy interferes with the natural healing process. So I believe nasal drops of a bland neutral oil containing in solution mild soothing but not constricting medicaments and vitamin D is preferable for local treatment of most acute and many chronic conditions of the nose or sinuses.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Mineral Nutrition

Has scientific research as yet determined a formula by which sufficient mineral matter could be given to supply the body's requirements yet reject harmful quantities over and above the body's needs? (T. L. S.)

Answer—No. The mineral nutrition or metabolism is not so simple as that.

A Natural Fixative

A says you do not recommend cayenne seed, B says you do. Please settle the argument for us. (C. D.)

Answer—If anything of the sort is to be used, I believe plain flaxseed is preferable to imported birdseed. In the booklet "The Constipation Habit" (for copy send ten cents and stamped envelope bearing your address). I recommend the following: Bananas, prunes, whole (unmilled) wheat, whole flaxseed. Your Birthday

"PISCES"

If February 25 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this day are from 10:10 a. m. to 12:10 p. m., from 1:10 to 3:10 p. m. and from 7:10 to 8:10 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:10 to 10:10 a. m., from 5:10 to 7:10 p. m. and from 10:10 p. m. until midnight.

Your facial expression may play an important part in your affairs this day. Be careful how, when and why it registers your varied emotions, for its reaction probably will affect you favorably or otherwise. If you are keeping house do not allow company to catch you unprepared to offer some manifestation of hospitality. There is likely to be a great deal of gayety this day, in some of which you are apt to participate. It might be wise in your social contacts to keep your conversation confined to impersonal subjects. Married and engaged couples, and those whose love affairs are running smoothly, must not permit some personal preference to interfere with their evening's pleasure.

If a woman and February 25 is your birthday, you are likely to have many varied social interests. You perhaps are inclined to be a little jealous, frequently without the slightest justification. You ought to have a very retentive memory and a poetic imagination. You probably are clever at designing, organizing and directing. The chances of your either making or acquiring a very substantial income, seems good. Some friend may make it possible to see one of your dearest wishes come true. Many Pisceans, born on this date become extensive travelers, so you may belong to this group. In all likelihood you have some pet theory, which, in time, may prove to be not only logical, but also thoroughly practical. As a purchasing agent, buyer, artist, writer, broker, sales lady or demonstrator you ought to be very clever. Marriage probably will give you the companionship and home-life you have hoped for.

The child born on February 25, should have every desirable attribute a parent could wish for. After it graduates, its way to success ought to be a comparatively easy road.

If a man and February 25 is your natal day, you either will make friends or enemies. Your attitude towards those with whom you are thrown into daily contact will be the determining factor. Friends will help you to success, while enemies are liable to retard your progress. As a newspaper man, author, printer, publisher, illustrator, salesman

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington — Some of those who will oppose President Roosevelt in his court reorganization proposal were glad he came forward with a scheme to expand the court rather than with some of the alternatives suggested earlier.

They sense it will be an easier issue to fight than a plan to take away the court's authority to pass on certain classes of legislation, or any scheme for requiring a majority of seven of the nine justices before any congressional act could be held unconstitutional.

Senator Van Nuys, Indiana Democrat, advanced what may be part of the opposition strategy. He proposed to separate the president's proposal into two parts, Supreme Court appointments in one, all the rest of the judiciary reform in the other. Van Nuys has worked before with Senator Borah, who is expected to head the opposition. He is not a Borah tag-along, just has some of the same ideas.

One Idea Liked

Administration leaders won't take to the Van Nuys idea sitting down. The president wasn't being haphazard when he wrapped the Supreme Court program in the sugar coating of court reform.

Right off, most of his opposition liked the proposal for quick appeals to the Supreme Court from district courts on important constitutional issues. Often it is done now. This would make it certain. Rarely does an important constitutional issue stop with the circuit court, so going that path is waste motion.

As Court 'Friend'

As to the president's proposal that the government have the right to intervene in private litigation involving acts of congress, by practice it has that right now. Rarely does a court refuse the government the right of coming in as a "friend of the court," under which banner it can fight on either side it chooses.

Some of the president's critics felt that in advocating court expansion he was "backing away" from a constitutional amendment, fearful of breaking down the federal-state relationship. After all, Mr. Roosevelt, while governor of New York, did deliver a very earnest state's rights address.

Anti-Lynching

The inflow of anti-lynching bills has swelled to 20, most of them identical. Representative Sacks of Pennsylvania noted that he introduced one "by request." His office informed us that it was at the request of the Association for Advancement of Colored People. Presumably each one introducing such a bill would be pledged to it.

The government printer estimates printing bills cost $4.75 a page. Each lynching bill has 8 pages, total $38, or $1.064 for the 26 introduced. In form these bills parallel the one filibustered to death two years ago by southern senators. Police officials in an area where a lynching occurs would be subject to prosecution in a federal court, a $5,000 fine and five years' imprisonment. The victim or his survivors also could sue in federal court for $2,000 to $10,000 damages from the defaulting officials. The attorney general would be required to prosecute both the criminal action and the suit for damages unless the victim chose other counsel for the latter. No pre-payment of court costs would be required of the claimants, thus making it possible for impoverished negroes to get action.

China's minister of education has ordered all schools to be equipped with radio before the end of 1937. Many Chinese schools are also installing motion picture equipment.

TAPPI Presents Medal Award to Institute Editor

Dr. C. J. West Recognized For Contributions to Paper Industry

Dr. Clarence J. West, technical editor, Institute of Paper Chemistry, today became the sixth person to be honored with the gold medal of the Technical Association of the Pulp and Paper Industry. The presentation was made by Dr. Harry F. Lewis, dean of the Institute, at the technical association's luncheon at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, New York, before its assembled members from all parts of the nation.

Dr. West was given the medal in recognition of his valuable contributions to the paper industry in the form of bibliographical volumes dealing with the technical literature of paper manufacture. He has been chairman of the committee on abstracts and bibliography of the Technical Association since 1920. Before coming to the institute he was editor for the National Research Council at Washington, D. C.

In making the presentation Dean Lewis said:

"In past years the TAPPI medal has been presented to William Mason, Ogden Minton, Ernst Mahler, Edwin Sutermeister, and William Millsbaugh. These awards have been made for notable contributions to the chemistry or technology of pulp or paper making."

"Today we meet to pay tribute to an anomaly, our medalist is a chemist, yet he has never presented a single chemical paper before TAPPI. His name is known wherever periodicals on pulp or paper are read, and yet until this year he never stepped inside a paper mill. He is a man who has served the industry loyally, effectively, and without ostentation. Since receiving his Ph. D. degree in 1912 he has published the almost incredible number of 550 books, articles, translations, book reviews, and so forth."

Introduces West

"You will often hear it said that a good secretary is valuable. I say that a good bibliographer is invaluable. Members of TAPPI and guests, it is my privilege to introduce my good friend and co-worker, C. J. West."

"Dr. West, it is both my privilege and my pleasure, on behalf of the Technical Association of the Pulp and Paper Industry, to present you with the TAPPI gold medal, this year's award of merit."

In responding to Dean Lewis' presentation, Dr. West remarked:

"To me the award of this medal, while a high personal honor, is much more significant in that it accepts me as a recognition on the part of the technical association, of the value of the bibliographic and abstracting service which the committee has rendered the association for the past twenty years. While the scientific societies of the world have long accepted such research aids as a very necessary part of their literature, this has not been true of most technical societies. Comparisons are usually invidious and so I will not embarrass our fellow associations and societies by pointing out the ones which make available to results of research in their respective fields. But I believe I can say, in all fairness, that the Pulp and Paper Industry has been outstanding in such service, not only as to the question of abstracts, but also in that more neglected field of bibliography, which has been called 'the foundation of research.'"

"In accepting this medal, I wish to express to the technical association my sincere and heart-felt thanks for its recognition of the work which the committee on abstracts and bibliography has done. I feel that it shows a very broad point of view on the part of the association, for all too often such work is either taken as a matter of course, or else ignored altogether."

Ford Building Industrial Community in Farm Region

Ways, Ga.—(P)—In this south Georgia community on the banks of the Ogeechee river, Henry Ford will carry to fruition his dream of an ideal industrial community surrounded by farms able to sustain it.

As part of his broad program for this little town 18 miles from Savannah, Georgia's chief seaport, the Detroit automobile manufacturer announced today an automobile parts factory will be erected.

"We'll have an industry here," he said. "A draftsman is at work now on preliminary plans. Automobile parts will be manufactured but we haven't determined what kind it all depends on what 'fits'."

The plant will employ the people of this community which formerly knew farming, fishing and lumbering as its chief source of income, and will be closely affiliated with Ford's newly completed manual arts school here.

"We will aim, as we do in our other plants, to have the proper proportion of people of all ages," said the manufacturer whose winter home on nearby Richmond plantation was finished a few days ago.

Farming For All

"We won't have to import anybody either. Folks right here will have plenty of skill. Everybody will have a part in farming whether he owns a farm jointly or in his own name."

"Everything hinges around the school and the future of those educated here. We'll turn out skilled mechanics and their services will be sought eagerly by others."

Boys and girls will be taught agriculture and industry in the manual arts school as part of their academic training.

Hundreds of persons now are at work on various projects the motor car manufacturer has underway in this section. He is actively in touch with the work daily and is personally acquainted with those on the job.

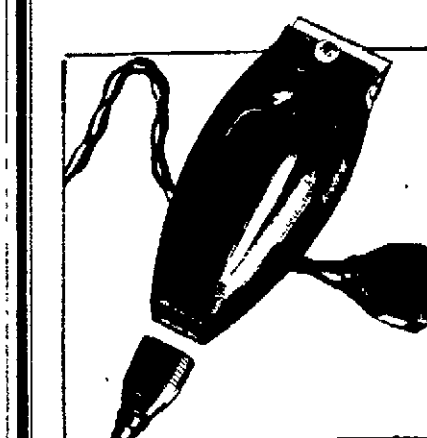

A community house containing 20 guest rooms, a large ballroom, lounge and dining room for use of the school children and their parents has been completed.

He said he did not know when the plant would be completed and he preferred not to estimate the probable cost.

DEDUCTION FOR TRAVELING

To obtain a deduction for traveling expenses, which form an important item in the returns of many taxpayers, certain regulations must be observed. The taxpayer is required to attack to his return a statement showing the nature of business in which engaged, number of days away from home during the taxable year on account of business, total amount of expense incidental to meals and lodging, and total amount of 'other expenses' incident to travel and claimed as a deduction. Among the "other expenses" are tips, provided they are reasonable in amount.

Traveling expenses are deductible only when the trip is on business. They are limited to such expenses as are reasonable and necessary in the conduct of the business and directly attributable to it.

Traveling expenses incurred in connection with a journey to another city to accept or seek employment are not deductible. Suburbanites who commute daily from their homes to their places of business are not permitted to deduct the cost of transportation, it being a personal expense.

Claims for deduction for traveling expenses must be substantiated, when required by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, showing in detail the amount and nature of the expenses incurred.

ACT ON PENSIONS

The county pension committee was meeting at the courthouse today. Hearings on a number of applications for old age assistance were under way.

HOW ARE YOUR KIDNEYS?

THE kidneys work day and night in removing waste material. A simple diuretic stimulant like Dr. Pierce's A-nuric, sold by druggists is often indicated and usually it is sufficient to relieve the burning and stinging, and the desire for frequent urination caused by or associated with excess acid. These tablets also tend to ease the flow of urine. Here is what Dr. Pierce's A-nuric did for Mrs. Elmer Hanson of 1803 1/2 Omaha Ave., La Crosse, Wis. She said: "At times my kidneys seem to get out of function. They act-up fresh and compel me to arise at night. Dr. Pierce's A-nuric Tablets have given me splendid relief."

1,934 Men, Boys Are Local Scouts

Compile Annual Report For Valley Council Meeting Thursday

Registered men and boys active in Valley Council Boy Scout activities during 1936 totaled 1,934, the annual report prepared by scout executives for the annual dinner meeting Thursday at Neenah shows. Organization work during the year was centered in Shawano county, Neenah, Menasha and the Clintonville district.

Three hundred and fifty-six men were active in scout work with 939 boys enrolled in 43 troops and 150 youths registered in six cub packs in the council. During 1936, a total of 439 men and boys dropped council work. The greatest loss was noted in the ranks of scouts who have belonged to the organization for three or four years.

Nine troops were organized last year by council leaders and it is expected that more than 10 troops will start activities this year.

When the annual report finally is compiled it will contain reports of district chairmen, council committeemen, the camping committee, court of honor activities and the president's message.

Flood Waters Traffic Hazard in Township

Forest Junction.—Flood waters in the eastern part of the town of Brillion, inundating stretches of town roads, were an obstacle to traffic in those areas at the opening of this week. An approximate quarter-mile stretch of road over a sink-hole near the Otto Rusch farm, which had been newly bridged with an old-fashioned corduroy roadway, was under 18 inches of water on Sunday and traffic was barred by the town highway patrolman on Monday. A few miles north of the location, an otherwise normal roadbed was submerged in a foot of water when ice-clogged culverts and ditches failed to open after Saturday night's thunder showers.

With approximately $11,000 still outstanding on an aggregate tax roll of $28,805.24, E. A. Rusch, Brillion town treasurer, was beginning his final week of tax collections on Monday. Penalties provided by law will be effective on March 1 on delinquent payments. Seventy-five dog owners, according to last summer's listings by the town assessor, were still delinquent on dog license fees at the opening of the week; the treasurer states.

Statesmen More Liberal With Personal Problems

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York.—One of our beautiful male movie actors suffered a little embarrassment recently when his old and destitute grandfather bobbed up with an application for relief. The actor was said to be earning $3,500 a week, and the old gentleman, at the age of 84, was down to a diet of coffee, oatmeal and bread in a shack on an income of $4 a month. At first glumpe this would seem to be a flagrant case of neglect, but actually the young man was not far out of line. He was just $6.70 a week short of compliance with his moral obligation according to the famous American standard of living as established by public opinion through congress in the income tax law.

Congress took a very conservative stand on the American standard of living in the income tax law, but a much more liberal attitude is apparent in other actions of individual statesmen. They all hold strictly to the austere and simple standard in the maximum tax allowance of $400 a year for the support of children under 18 and of dependent grandfathers and grandmothers and other needy kin. But in their personal problems, the members of the house and senate often find that it takes from $100 to $250 a month to support a needy relative in the role of office clerk or secretary, and put them on the public pay roll at such amounts.

You would be deeply touched by this generous family loyalty of the same statesmen who establish for others a standard of living not to exceed roughly $110 per day. A few years ago, Raymond Clapper, by diligent research in the records and the careful tracing of family relationships obscured by dissimilar names, uncovered hundreds of examples of this generous far in excess of the standard of living which congress fixed by law. Some statesmen had as many as three of their kin-people safely put away in various bureaus and John N. Garner, the vice president, had taken good care of his son in a sort of outpost of national government in Uvalde, Tex.

Mr. Clapper's revelations caused a little reaction, the people seeming to think that the kin of statesmen should not flout the American standard of living by drawing more than lawful living requirement. But then came the New Deal and confusion, and the problem was forgotten, with the result that nowadays again the statesmen feel free to provide generously for their own, at public expense.

He Might Be Jailed

For Concealing Income

In the present case, the actor's old grandfather has a private income of $1 a week from the rent of the two front rooms of his shack. This will have to be deducted, because like Al Capone the old gentleman might get 11 years in Alcatraz for concealing income. And the $1 a week would reduce the actor's obligation to about $6.70 a week according to the congressional version of the American standard. Of course, the actor might want to give the old man as much as $10 or $15 a week and pay income on the excess, but a man living by public favor, as an actor does can't be too careful of public opinion. If he were to shower the old man with riches to that extent people might think he was high-hatting a very sacred thing, a proud ideal and boast of the nation, the $7.70 standard of living.

The puzzled actor at his rate of pay, might give away as much as $25,000 to a society for the prevention of cruelty to animals and deduct that amount from his taxable income. But if he were to assume personally the support of 100 destitute children unrelated to him or give $1,000 to some cold and starving family of strangers, that money would be taxable. Charity to animals through an incorporated society is pure and legal, but individual succor to needy human beings, however tragic their case, comes under the heading of folly, except in the case of statesmen's relatives, on the public pay roll.

'Story of the Organ' Is Told by LaVahn Maesch in Talk Before Church Women

THE organ is the only instrument which covers the complete musical range and the organ and flute are the only ones which are made scientifically. Women's Association of First Congregational church was told by LaVahn K. Maesch, organist and choir director for the church, who spoke on "The Story of the Organ" at a meeting Tuesday afternoon.

No two organs are just alike because they are not built alike, continued the speaker. The organ is more flexible than the orchestra, he said, because when a composer writes an orchestra arrangement he designates certain passages for certain instruments and the orchestra must play the score just that way, but when an organ arrangement is written the composer can only put down the music and allow the organist to interpret it as he sees fit for no two organs are just alike and the composer cannot tell on what kind of an instrument his music will be played. Mr. Maesch pointed out that 80 per cent of the world's great orchestra conductors have been organists.

Describes Organ Mr. Maesch discussed the organ at First Congregational church, stating that it has about 2,500 pipes consisting of 35 or 38 sets. The perfection of an organ depends on the ratio of its size to the size of the auditorium, he added.

The various parts of the organ were explained by Mr. Maesch who stated that organ pipes are made today just as they were in the Middle Ages, all of them being cut, turned and fashioned by hand. There are four divisions to the organ to correspond to the four divisions of an orchestra, he continued. The orchestra has strings, woodwind, brass and percussion sections, while the organ has diapasons, strings, flutes and reeds.

From the eighth to the fifteenth centuries, he went on, men had to pump the bellows of the organ with their feet, but later these were operated by means of hand pumps, each church having a pump. He spoke of the International Association of Organ Pumpers which is still in existence.

Can Be Swelled Tones can be swelled or depressed by means of the foot pedals on the organ, said the speaker.

At the close of his talk, Mr. Maesch played Handel's "Water Music Suite" and responded to an encore with "Evensong."

Preceding the program, Women's Association held a short meeting at which Mrs. H. E. Peabody, Rosendale, led devotions. She read passages from the service which she prepared for the dedication of the organ eight years ago. Tea was served after the meeting by Circle 2 of which Mrs. R. W. Gelschow and Mrs. C. L. Henderson are co-chairmen.

Mrs. Joseph Koffend, Jr., program chairman, announced that for the March meeting Mrs. Mary de Jonge, reference librarian at Appleton Public library, will give a lecture on "Legends of the Madonna."

Mendelssohn Overture to Open Concert

ONE of Mendelssohn's most dramatic and charming overtures, "Fingal's Cave," will open the concert of the Lawrence college symphony at Memorial chapel Thursday evening. Dr. Percy Fullinwider, professor of violin at the conservatory of music, will conduct.

In addition to the Mendelssohn overture, the first half of the orchestra's program will include Bach's familiar "Pastorale in C Minor," and "By the Waters of Babylon" for string orchestra.

The most important number in the classical group which will be played is Mozart's "Symphony in E Flat Major," No. 39. This piece, in the conventional four movements, is considered one of Mozart's best, and has appeared on symphony orchestra programs with great frequency.

This year's orchestra consists of 9 first violins, 8 second violins, 5 cellos, 2 basses, 2 clarinets, 2 flutes, 1 bassoon, 2 trumpets, 2 horns, 2 oboes, 1 pianist, and 1 tympanist. This presents a nicely balanced group, with the exception of the light bass section.

The program will close with Debussy's attractive, tuneful "March and Procession of Bacchus," from the ballet "Sylvia." All seats for the performance are free.

Persia Described in Talk For Women's Union Group

A picture of Persia much different from the one of rugs, fur coats and cats which usually comes to an American's mind when that country is mentioned was described for members of the Women's Union at the First Baptist church Tuesday afternoon by Theodore Yonan, a native of that country.

Disproving the common supposition that any native of Persia is a Mohammedan, Mr. Yonan said that the Armenians and Assyrians who number about 80,000 in that country have been Christians throughout the centuries. His father, whose family had been Christian for generations, had a Bible 1,300 years old, which he gave to the University of Chicago museum.

He explained the backwardness of Persia through the centuries to the fact that there had never been any real homes there. Based on the teachings of the Koran, the Mohammedan Bible, women were treated as slaves, and a man could have more than one wife. Since 1921 and 1922, however, Persia has changed, Mr. Yonan declared, attributing the change to the growth of commerce with other countries after the World war.

The new king, although a Mohammedan, has seen how the Christian nations progressed while his country remained backward, and has therefore instituted many of the teachings of Christianity, Mr. Yonan said. Persians who have been educated in the American missionary

Good Government Group Is Planned At Waupaca Meet

Temporary Organization
May Give Way to Permanent League March 15

Waupaca — Judge A. M. Scheller was the only county official present at a meeting in the courthouse Tuesday evening, when nearly forty citizens were present in the interests of the organization of a Good Government League, sponsored by three Waupaca pastors, the Rev. Henry Hanson of Our Savior's Lutheran church, the Rev. J. M. Anderson of the Holy Ghost Lutheran church and the Rev. G. N. Doody of the First Baptist church.

Acting as general chairman, Roy Holly introduced two speakers from Walworth county, where such a league has been formed and is giving support to officials of that county aiding in the enforcement of the laws, especially those against gambling. The Walworth league claims credit for ridding that county of its slot machines. The speakers were O. L. Merritt of East Troy and Mr. Kennedy of Genoa.

March 15 was set for the date of the next meeting when plans may be developed. Until that time Roy Holly was elected to act in the capacity of temporary chairman. At the suggestion of the Rev. Hugh Misdall of the First Methodist church, it was moved to form a temporary organization to be called the Waupaca County Good Government League, in order to protest a bill now pending in the state legislature to legalize gambling.

Paul Thatcher, Alton Pinkerton and Olaf Skye were named as a temporary committee of three to draft a telegram to the legislature on the question.

Waupaca county officials are interested in having the state legislature pass a bill whereby the county officers would be filled in a non-partisan election, and had hoped to see it brought to a referendum vote this spring. At the January session of the county board a resolution was passed and copies mailed to the state senate and legislature urging them to support legislation to that effect.

high school. Mr. Bartz emphasized the greatness of Washington bringing out the facts which made him, "first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

The program was followed by a social hour and the serving of a lunch to about 75 persons in the temple dining room.

Miss Ralph Laney was hostess to her club at a 1:30 dinner Monday at her home, with two tables of bridge following the meal. Prizes were won by Mrs. Everette Bard and Mrs. Gordon Richardson. The club will hold its next meeting at the home of Mrs. Jack Aufreiter in two weeks.

Members of her contract bridge club were entertained at a 7:30 dinner Monday evening by Mrs. James Kuester. Two tables of cards were in play, with honors awarded to Mrs. Lloyd Scheider, Miss June Spearbraker and Miss Dorothy Spearbraker.

Mrs. J. E. Leyrer was hostess to her bridge club Tuesday afternoon, when two tables of cards were followed by a luncheon. Mrs. Henry Korb won high honors and several other prizes were awarded. The March meeting of the group will be held at the home of Mrs. Harry Isaacson.

Californians Rely on Sun To Heat Water for Homes

Solar Water Heater
How a solar water heating system may be installed in an ordinary house is shown by this sketch.

BY SAM JACKSON
Davis, Calif.—Free sunshine is heating water for thousands of California homes. Skeptics to the contrary, the system works at night as well as in the daytime.

Those who depend on sunshine exclusively for heating water get along comfortably as long as nine months a year without spending a cent, although a succession of cool cloudy days occasionally may cause postponement of wash day or of one's hot bath.

Many householders, who want a steaming stream from the faucet at all times, have gas or electric heaters or furnace coils working in conjunction with sunshine. On sunny days the sun does the work, and on cloudy ones artificial heat takes its place.

Research Done On It
An exhaustive study of solar heating systems has been made by F. A. Brooks, associate agricultural engineer at the University of California experiment station here.

Tracing the solar heater back to the days when a farmer merely lashed an iron tank on his roof, Professor Brooks has analyzed various methods of getting the most heat out of the sun's rays. As the most practical heater, he selects a zigzag arrangement of iron pipe enclosed in a flat, insulated box with a glass cover and placed on a slanting roof. This is called an "absorber."

By a process known as thermosiphoning, the heated water flows from the exposed pipes to a storage tank which ordinarily is placed in the attic. Cold water replaces it and is in turn heated and stored. The tank is well insulated, so it supplies hot water through the night until the sun gets to work the next day.

Automatic System Devised
A development by the California engineer is a tandem solar-electric heater which is entirely automatic, the electricity going on whenever tainment consisted of the reading of an original poem by W. H. Schmidt and several Washington recitations by children of the members.

Rebekahs and Odd Fellows will have a social meeting at the I. O. O. F. hall on Friday evening, Feb. 26.

the sun's rays are too weak to maintain the hot water supply.

"With such a combination," he says, "the housewife will never be bothered by lukewarm water, yet will save heating expense when the sun shines."

Any handyman can build his own solar heater, or one may be purchased ready-made. Professor Brooks warns, however, that beyond sending a booklet of instructions he cannot enter into correspondence with builders regarding their problems.

Hollywood News And Gossip By Robbin Coon

Hollywood—The young man was in a quandary. He represented an organization holding its national convention in Los Angeles. Somebody had sent out invitations, and then appointed the young man as the "entertainment committee."

The invitations had invited conventioners specifically (1) to meet and play with movie stars and (2) to dance with Ginger Rogers. All the young man had to do was (1) to assemble movie stars for the conventioners to meet and play with and (2) to get Ginger Rogers.

Now movie stars are notoriously not fond of meeting and playing with strangers, and Miss Rogers, after dancing all day with Fred Astaire, might be justified in turning down an invitation to dance with several hundred howling, ripsnorting convention visitors.

The last I saw of the young man he was still in a quandary.

Hollywood (meaning the movie studios) is not so fond of conventions as it might be. It deals with them as tactfully and considerately as expediency permits, but it more frequently turns thumbs down cold. Convention delegates themselves, with a little reflection, would understand why this is so. Making pictures is an industry, and two or three hundred visitors at a time—each goggle-eyed and, oh, so interested—can clutter up a set like a sit-down strike.

The usual procedure, when studio courtesies are in order, is to conduct a bus tour through the lot, denying the stages to the badge-wearers. Because the latter want to see movies in the law, they rarely are content with this. Nor are they satisfied generally (and a hardbitten veteran of many experiences is my authority) with a look-see on a set or two. What they seem to want is to ogle a Dietrich love scene or one of Garbo's intimate moments.

Failing to achieve this, not a few conventioners have left the studios in a pout. On one occasion, when diplomacy dictated some sort of concession, a studio assembled several stars for lunch in its dining room, had Al Jolson and other entertainers perform, and thought its guests would be happy. But they didn't get on the sound stages—and some of them spoke their minds about that. That's how trying to be nice makes enemies.

For "important" organizations which can pull strings, exceptions are made, and the studio resigns itself to being over-run a day or two. But Hollywood makes no exceptions—officially at least—for one rule. It will not, emphatically not, supply feminine beauty to convention parties.

Aerating canned grapefruit juice by pouring it from one glass to another several times has been found by University of Illinois scientists to improve the flavor.

Declarer Must Pay for an Error if Ruffing Is Wrong

A SHREWD PLAN OF PLAY.

Declarer often is faced with this problem: Whether to plan his play on the mechanical factor of a favorable lay of cards or to assume a bad distribution and to call on the enemy for aid. Some of these decisions are close, the hand shown below being a typical example. I do not judge by results, and the fact that the declarer's choice happened to result in victory, whereas the other plan would have ended in defeat, is not my reason for endorsing his decision. But let us examine the hand itself.

The bidding:
South West North East
1 club 4 diamonds 4 hearts Pass
5 clubs Pass Pass Pass

North-South were not using the two-way three bid, which accounts for South opening with a one club bid rather than three clubs. (Perhaps I had better state, before being asked, that a five club bid would not have been good, since three no trump might well have been the best "sop" for the hand.)

West opened the diamond king and, before playing any card from dummy, declarer went into a huddle. I was sitting directly behind him and could follow his thought processes step by step. Dummy's only quick entry was being removed before a heart trick could be established and, therefore, declarer faced the prospect of losing two diamonds and one heart. Obviously, a diamond loser could be salvaged by a ruff in the dummy, but (and this "but" reached mammoth proportions) this depended on dummy's ten of clubs standing up against an overruff by East. Of one thing declarer was certain, and that was that West's three bid had been based on no less than six diamonds. East, in that case, would have no more than two, with the probability favoring one. With this diamond shortness it was highly likely that East was longer in clubs than was West, and this in turn strongly suggested that the missing jack of clubs would be in the East rather than in the West hand. If that were true, it would be futile to attempt to ruff a diamond.

Having decided that the ruffing plan was unpropitious, declarer fell back on the only alternative, that of playing for an error. He won the first trick with dummy's diamond ace, and rattled off eight trump tricks. A glance at the West hand will disclose the disastrous difficulties into which West ran. Reducing to four cards it was the most natural thing in the world for him to hold the king-five of spades and the ace of hearts, which brought him down to one diamond. How could he tell that the declarer had started out with three diamonds and that he had not tried for a ruff in the dummy through fear of an overruff? I venture to say that nine out of ten experts would have "fallen" for this hoax. Now, of course all declarer had to do was lead a diamond and, when he regained the lead with the spade ace, cash his third diamond for the fulfilling trick.

When Flood Waters Rise

II—Mississippi Levees
There was a terrible flood in the Mississippi valley in 1927. The river swelled so much that it covered 20,000 square miles of land on either side, and drove half a million persons from their homes.

Twenty thousand men were set to work piling sandbags on levees guarding the lowermost end of the Mississippi, and within two weeks 6,000,000 sandbags were piled on the levees. This made them stronger, but the people of New Orleans did not feel at peace. The river was rising steadily, and reports of floods were coming in from upstream. The levees had broken in several places, and some towns were under water. The city of Vicksburg sent out a call for "all the skiffs and motorboats you can spare," after two breaks took place in the levees there.

What would happen to New Orleans? That was what everyone wondered. Then came a plan to blow a great hole in the levee, which was downstream from the city. After due warning had been given, the plan was carried out, and explosions of dynamite tore gaps in a levee which had guarded the city from the river. This brought down the level of the dark, almost black, river water, and the people of New Orleans were freed from their fear. It may be that nothing else would have saved the city, back in 1927, from terrible disaster. (For General Interest section of your scrapbook.)

Since that time more than 1,600 miles of levees have been built along the Mississippi between Cairo, Ill., and New Orleans. Some of them are mounds 25 to 30 feet high with a width at the top of eight to ten feet and a width at the bottom of 100 feet or more. The best soil with which to build them seems to be clay mixed with small amounts of sand.

On Easter Day, nearly 10 years ago, the people of New Orleans had begun to grow fearful. The city had been drenched by clouds of burials, and there also had been heavy rains in northern parts of the Mississippi valley. The downpours had caused the river to swell and it was believed they might have weakened the levees around New Orleans.

If we study a good map of the United States, we can see why the Mississippi should have been called "the Father of Waters." Hundreds of rivers and streams flow into it, and it drains water from an area of more than a million square miles.

Each second of the year, if we take the average figure, the Mississippi pours over 5,000,000 gallons of water into the Gulf of Mexico. In high water season, the amount is about four times as great.

In lower parts of the Mississippi valley, a great deal of money has been spent to build "levees." These are walls or banks which have been raised to keep the river water from spreading outside the channel.

The first Mississippi levee on record was built at New Orleans. Work on it was finished more than 200 years ago, and it rose to a height of three feet.

Beauty Way Is Outward And Upward

BY ELSIE PIERCE
WE'RE pulled down aptly by the force of gravity and the natural tendency of the muscles of the body is to droop downward. That's why in using creams and lotions, in molding and patting the muscles of face and neck we are cautioned to make sure that we work "upward and outward."

Even in washing the face, try to remember to work upward and outward. Work in the latter as you would a cream. Rinse thoroughly and when drying work upward and outward. Try to be conscious of the "up and out" movement, never work down. When drying the face with a towel or removing cream with tissues it is so easy to forget oneself and rub downward, but that can do no more than add age signs when they finally start cropping up.

Good Posture
Good posture calls for the upward lift. Abdomens should be held in, chests high, head up, shoulders in natural position, buttocks tucked under.

A modern advocate of upward exercises insists that all corrective exercises can be back instead of forward and down. Her posture position calls for the up and back lift.

For Scalp Health
For scalp health, how do we brush? Once more, up and out. That stimulates the circulation through the scalp, carries the oil evenly along the hairshaft, polishes every strand, removes dust, grime, and surface accumulations.

If you've seen scalp specialists at work, you've doubtless noticed how they start at a point between the shoulder blades and work upward to the nape of the neck, then up to the crown, then lift the fingers through the hair, up and out. For Spirit's Sake

Apart from the good, sound health reasons behind this "up and out" theory, its psychological effort on the spirit is "swell too." Don't you feel ever so much better when you are looking up and lifting up than when you droop down? I remember, as a child, being taught to "look up and love and laugh and lift." One can build a whole philosophy of life on that. (Copyright, 1937)

Then do your best to be matter of fact and casual as possible. If you cannot control yourself let somebody else stand by. The child catches your mood, and what he needs is courage, not fear. Be brave for his sake and you will find yourself getting through very well.

Thinks Birth Is Trivial If Compared to Marriage

BY DOROTHY DIX
Did you ever consider these queer things about marriage? All of us know that marriage is the most important thing that ever happened to us; that compared to it being born is a trivial accident and dying a mere incident, yet we give to it less serious thought and intelligence than we do to anything else in life.

A marriage license costs less than a dog license. The only binding contract into which children and umbrellas are permitted by law to enter is the marriage contract. Minors and idiots are protected against throwing away their property, but they are allowed to bankrupt themselves in happiness for life by making fool marriages.

In an age in which women have fought for and obtained equality with men in every other sphere of activity they are still not permitted to take an open part in courtship, yet the right to vote, or to be a doctor or lawyer, or store executive is a poor thing compared to the privilege of picking out the husband one wants instead of having to take what one can get. Women's wooing still has to be done under cover, and the only right men still preserve intact is the right to pop the question.

Every girl hopes and expects to make matrimony her career in life, yet not one in ten thousand ever even thinks of preparing herself for it. She would not undertake to be a doctor without studying medicine, or to be a stenographer without learning to type, but she will marry without knowing the slightest thing about how to run a budget, or buy meat, or cooking.

Before a girl buys a new hat she shops all over the place, gives the millinery the once-over, makes sure that the headgears she picks out suits her coloring and style and fires her fancy, but she will marry the first man who asks her, or she will marry when she is so young that she hasn't had a chance to meet other men with whom she can compare him, and she won't even try to ascertain whether they have the same tastes and habits and like the same style of cooking.

Before a man buys a new car he will consider not only whether it has pretty paint and streamline effects and little gadgets that catch his eye but also its engine, its horsepower, how much gas it uses, how expensive its upkeep will be, and whether it was made by a reliable firm. Also, he will consider for what purpose he wishes the car and he won't buy a sport car if he needs a truck.

But when he marries, nine times out of ten he picks out his wife by her looks. A man who needs a wife who will be a good working partner marries a butterfly. A poor man marries a fashion-plate who spends more than he makes. A close-fisted man marries a woman who throws money at the birds.

No man or woman will buy a piece of property without investigating its title and seeing if there are any mortgages or unpaid taxes or whatnots that may come up and make trouble later on, but otherwise intelligent people marry every day without taking the trouble to investigate the past records of those they are marrying and finding out if they are clean or not.

We put great stress on the pedigrees of animals and will pay thousands of dollars for a thoroughbred horse or dog when we wouldn't take a scrub as a gift, but when we marry we don't stop to consider what a sort of a heritage we may be wishing on our children, whether the blood their mother or father

GOOD TASTE TODAY

BY EMILY POST

ONE MAID ALONE

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please give me an idea of what I may expect of a general houseworker in this house of eight rooms and every convenience, only two people, both adults, and both going to business and neither home to lunch?

Answer: The fairest advice I can give is that you expect of a maid alone what you believe you yourself could do were you taking charge of your own household chores. To enumerate her specific duties would be impossible without knowing your habits. She would certainly prepare the meals and keep the house in order, and quite possibly launder your personal belongings. Whether she does the marketing or not is something only you can determine.

Dear Mrs. Post: I have in my employ a young woman whom I have been able to rely upon to the utmost for excellent general housework. I am terribly sorry to have to let her go but I can't afford to have any one just now. I would like to find her a good place but my friends are not in a position to engage her. Would my general note of recommendation have any weight with an employer she might find if such a lady is a stranger to me? And if so, what wording would you suggest?

Answer: On paper (that has your name and full address stamped, write something more or less like the following: "Marie Green has been in my employ for three years as general houseworker. I have found her honest, sober, industrious, neat in person as well as her work of admirable disposition and a very good worker. She is leaving my great regret because I am unable to have any one at the present time. Marie is an excellent servant in every way and I shall be glad to answer personally any inquiries about her." Your willingness to see or write any one personally is the most important item in this letter because you would not say it about some one who was in any way unsatisfactory.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is there any objection to using a tray that has small feet for serving purposes?

Answer: No objection unless the possible danger there is of catching the feet of such a tray in the shoulder trimming of a woman's dress. (Copyright, 1937)

New London Ski Riders Fail To Place in Weekend Meets

New London—The jinx overshadowed New London Ski club riders at meets Sunday and Monday and they returned to New London early Tuesday morning with nothing to show for their efforts. Robert Roecker, class A rider, dislocated his shoulder when he fell on his first run at the Iron Mountain meet Sunday. He was unable to take part in the Ishpeming meet Monday and probably will not ride any more this season.

Les Jacobson, class C rider who has taken many first and second places for New London, broke one of his skis on the trial run at Ishpeming and also was put out of the running.

Frank Carlson, New London's senior class rider, was featured at the Ishpeming meet as the oldest rider in competition there but he did not place. The group of local skiers attended the ice carnival at Ishpeming Monday evening before returning home. They were accompanied by Bob Monsted and Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Comstock.

With conditions still favorable for the state open championship meet here March 14 the Mosquito hill slide will be kept in condition as long as possible. It is expected an outside rider will test the 88-foot scaffold since Roecker's injury.

Two Rivers High In State Finals

Clintonville Debaters Lose In Last Round at Stevens Point

Clintonville -- The debate season came to a close with the finals of the sectional tournament which was held at Stevens Point on Saturday. In this contest Clintonville did not lose until the final round.

The first round saw nine schools competing in three triangles. They were arranged as follows: Adams-Friendship, Antigo and Clintonville in the first triangle; Oconto, Phillips and Rhinelander in the second triangle; and Tomah, Two Rivers and Waupun in the third triangle. The three schools winning in the first round were Clintonville, Phillips and Two Rivers.

The Clintonville affirmative defeated the Adams-Friendship negative and the Clintonville negative defeated the Antigo affirmative. In the final round the Clintonville affirmative defeated the Phillips negative. However, the negative lost to the Two Rivers affirmative. The Two Rivers negative also defeated the Phillips affirmative. As a result Two Rivers will represent the central section in the state finals at Madison.

The central section is composed of the three central districts. These are the Leavenworth, Stevens Point and Oshkosh districts. Clintonville was a representative of the Oshkosh district having won all the previous debates in the state round. Out of all the schools taking part in debate work in the three districts Clintonville placed second.

The number participating at the start was about fifty schools. The margin by which the state finals were missed was very small and we must conclude that we can look back upon a very successful season.

During the course of the season the debaters took part in almost forty debates. In the state rounds the number of decision debates totaled eight and Clintonville won seven out of the eight.

Plan Junior Ski Slide, Toboggan Run in New Park

Lions Club Will Sponsor Projects if They are Feasible

New London—A study of the possibilities for the erection of a combined junior ski slide and toboggan run in the new William H. Hatten Community Recreational park was launched yesterday by members of the Lions club after a discussion at the noon luncheon meeting at the Elwood hotel. First steps will be to secure an estimate of the cost of the materials to be borne by the club and the amount of materials on hand which were left over from the Mosquito hill ski slide.

After the indoor meeting yesterday several members of the Lions club conferred at the park with J. Duhaney, district engineer for the WPA, and C. F. Moore, regional recreational director, both of the Stevens Point office. The officials favored the plan and considered the park an ideal location for the project.

Funds Limited

Lions club members pointed out that their funds are limited and unless the city aids with donations of trucks, steam shovel and other equipment, the club would be unable to consider the project at this time. As a WPA work the government would furnish the labor and a certain percentage of the materials. The club is ready to furnish the necessary materials if the cost is reasonable.

The club's funds for the project are derived from proceeds of the ski tournaments here. Construction of a junior slide and general encouragement of winter sports in New London was the first purpose of the Lions club in forming the New London Ski club.

Interviews With Seldom Heard-From People Quincy Q. Querelous

"I don't know WHAT we're coming to!"

"Mark my word, you'll all live to regret this circulation you're making such a fuss over! Just think of all the extra ink, the extra paper, the extra people, the extra work, and the extra expense you have to go to in order to deliver all those papers every day."

"Besides, it would be terrible to lose the lovely, chummy atmosphere of our community by growing too much. Yes indeed, you'll be sorry you did it."

There are those, of course, who consider that the present circulation figure of the Post-Crescent was accomplished by various types of sales-pressure and special offers. As a matter of fact, the increase in attributable solely to an improved and more desirable newspaper, to a more complete coverage of news from all points in the Appleton area, and to a speedier and greatly improved circulation service.

This kind of an increase is a healthy one. It reflects a steadily growing and prospering community. It is the type that advertisers welcome.

After all, our job is not one of 'growing too much.' Our job is one of keeping up with the community. We're kept mighty busy doing just that, too!

Adequate Recreational Programs Help Decrease Juvenile Delinquencies

Neenah—Declaring that failure to provide adequate recreational programs under the supervision of real men and real leadership is one of the major causes of increasing delinquency among young boys, John C. Burke, parole officer, Wisconsin State prison, told members of the Woman's Tuesday club at the Neenah library Tuesday afternoon that penal problems in industrial homes and prisons would be greatly reduced if more concern in the way young boys spend their leisure time was evidenced.

"If you don't provide a spillway for a dammed up stream, it can become a source of destruction in a similar manner, if we fail to provide outlets for the great amount of energy in the youth, they will find outlets, not always desirable and not because they particularly want to but because there is nothing in else to do."

"Years ago boys walked to school played ball in a neighbor's lot, did the chores, swam in the old swimming hole, fished in nearby creeks. Today children don't walk to school. They drive their own cars or ride with someone else. It isn't quite the thing to walk in the cities, boys have little opportunity to play baseball, go swimming or fishing. If there is a pond where they might swim it is usually polluted with refuse from some industrial plant."

Natural Leaders
"We must not make the mistake however, of providing a complete physical plant built up from money appropriated for a recreational program and then not have enough money left to hire experienced leaders and real men to run it. All that equipment won't do any good if we don't have qualified leaders. Without the proper person to take charge of a recreational program it can become nothing more than a hangout place. I would rather see a community appropriate enough money for a recreational program with a definite amount set aside at once for a real man, a real leader to run it than spend that money on the best equipment in the world."

"You insist that your school teachers be of the highest quality with the highest moral qualifications. You set higher standards for them than you yourself would expect to follow. You want them to be good examples for your boys and girls. If your children are ill, you don't hire a quack doctor. You want the best. If your boys get into trouble you seek the best lawyer. If your boy dies, you want the services of a licensed mortician."

Yet in absolute contradiction to this you forget that a boy's association is a greater influence upon him than anyone else and he has a great deal of leisure time with which to spend with those associations. Parents Are Busy
"Father are busy with business activities or golfing. Mothers are busy with home and parties. In smaller apartments where there is little room, parents are glad to be rid of the children during the day. In the evening dad and mother may be entertaining so they send the children off to a show. Where do those boys go? Around town for the most part, where a bunch of idlers, moral perverts, go to work. The sex is taught in the wrong way. These ridicule of parents becomes a fad. There is planted the seeds of a wrong philosophy of life."

"Think about the time a boy has for leisure. School is out at 3:30. Where is he from then until supper time and after supper? Where are the boys on Saturday, Sunday, holidays, vacations and all summer? How much time is spent under your supervision?"

Capable Leaders
"We turned our education over to more capable people when we found we were not qualified but it is time that we learned we must turn the recreation of our boys over to someone better qualified with more time if we want those boys to grow into useful citizens and fine men. We must back Boy Scouts, Y M C A's, Boys Brigades and the like. More than ever before we need directed recreational programs during the summer."

But what of the boy who hasn't adjusted himself to school and society you may ask? What of the boy who comes before the judge on a first offense? It is right to send him off to a reform school without investigating the situation thoroughly? That investigator must not be the type however who believes all boys are going to the dogs and must be a silly sentimentalist who believes the poor lad never had a chance.

Nothing Uplifting
"That investigation may result in finding that the boy lives in a home that is about 'on the rocks,' that no one in that home goes to church, that the moral tone is questionable and that the father is in a questionable business. There seems nothing in the home that is uplifting for that boy. In school he may be looking upon as a dumb-bell. It might be because he can't see very well or can't hear. It may be he is a big fellow in a class with a bunch of youngsters and feels out of place. The school never took any trouble with him. The recreation boys didn't want him because he lived far out of town in a funny house and was a dumb-bell in school. That boy I would say never had a chance. What help did he get from the home or from the community? Perhaps he may be put on probation to a probation officer."

That probation officer must be a man who can understand, who can build up a program. You can't legislate boys into being good. That probation officer must solicit the aid of all the agencies in the community. He must coordinate all the good influences. I do not mean to paint a rosy picture. That boy will have his shortcomings and the probation officer may fail but we can try.

How About Future?
"But what of a man after he has come into the prison? We must not lose sight of the fact that prison is not only a place to come into but also a place from which to go out. It is not how long or how severe a sentence may be that is the greatest deterrent to crime but the surety that if a crime is committed, a man will be caught, convicted, and given some form of punishment. That is why at the prison we have strict discipline, Catholic and Protestant church services each Sunday. That is why there is literature to read, school to go to and work to do."

"We have 300 men in the prison going to school all day, we have 200 more taking night courses, about 200 taking reading courses and about the same amount taking extension work from the University of Wisconsin. If a man shows a real interest in some mechanical work, he goes to school half days and works half days."

Public Liability
"A man who comes into a prison is a public liability. He has become unfit for society. But when he goes out he must be ready to become an asset to a community. He must be able to take his place in society. That is why he should go out on parole. It is a protection to the public. Of course we have failures. Human nature is not predictable but we cannot publicize our successes but the failures are publicized for us."

From the state prison, we have about 250 men on parole with 35 parole officers in charge. Some states parole in excess of 100,000 as many as Wisconsin with no parole officer program whatsoever.

"The 2,000 men on parole and probation from May 1935 to May 1936 earned in excess of $100,000. Think what the state saved."

In his introductory remarks, Mr. Burke told the club women that he had been in probation work only a little over five years and did not profess to know a great deal. He said that 1,710 men were housed in the Wisconsin State prison at the present time, that between 400 and 500 were in the state reformatory.

Over 800 Inmates
"At one time there were over 800 in the reformatory. Why was there a drop? I don't know. I like to think it is because the probation program is carried out more extensively than years ago and because CCC camps take off the streets the boys of delinquent age."

Mr. Burke discussed briefly the development of the board of control in Wisconsin which brought about a unified system of keeping accounts and a uniform purchasing department in the state institutions. The board is responsible for the policies in all of the state institutions. The probation program staff has been increased from 12 to 37 employees all under civil service all trained for the work, with the average education exceeding four years.

"The Wisconsin parole system is recognized as one of the finest in the United States. The board has instituted a psychiatric field service with doctors visiting penal institutions examining new inmates investigating mental problems, examining every man up for parole. Wasserman tests are given each man when he enters a state institution and should the test show evidence of mental disease that man receives treatment and is not allowed to come up for parole unless the condition is cleared up."

Mr. Burke told about the needs for the state institutions stating that the state prison was built to house 900 there are 1,710 men housed there now. A remodeled south cell block is needed as well as a new hospital.

School Needed
"Far more important however is the need for the completion of the high industrial school at Oregon." said Mr. Burke as he briefly outlined the history of the school. Charging that the present school at Milwaukee was unfit that the location was wrong and that it was a firetrap. The new school has been started some of the cottages have been completed and orchards and landscaped have been laid out. However there is no hospital no administration building and no laundry. And there is no money to complete it."

The Woman's Tuesday Club voted to have Miss Clara Bloom complete the petition urging an appropriation to complete this school and send copies to the assemblyman and senator from this district.

Menasha Commission Opposes Plan to Give Free Service

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison—The Menasha Utilities commission is opposed to the bill now pending in the legislature which would provide that municipally owned utilities give free service to city departments, including schools. John Jedwabny, member of the Menasha commission said here Monday.

Jedwabny who is an officer of the Wisconsin Municipal Utilities association represented that organization and the Menasha water and light utilities at a legislative conference of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities here. League members at the conference expressed the opinion that the free service bill is loosely drawn and that the term 'schools' could be interpreted to include barber and beauty schools and dancing schools, business colleges and other schools operated for profit.

Mr. Jedwabny, a former Menasha city clerk conferred with League officials at headquarters here on other utility bills to be considered by the legislature.

Dads Should Provide Sons With Proper Leadership

Neenah—Challenging the fathers to recognize their responsibility as leaders for their sons because they "know the holes in the sidewalk and can guide the way," the Rev. Frederic Block, pastor, First Lutheran church, West Allis and former missionary to Africa, urged at a banquet at St. Paul's Evangelical English Lutheran church last night to keep the light of Christianity burning in order to serve better their community, their church and their God.

As he told the group about Africa and some of his experiences while there, the Rev. Mr. Block displayed several articles which he had brought back with him from Liberia, located on the west coast of Africa just above the equator. As he related incidents about each article he displayed, the Rev. Mr. Block interpreted its symbol in Christian living in an interesting, entertaining way.

Displays Gifts
He displayed the skin of a littleboa constrictor given him as a gift from a chief, the skin of a chimpanzee that had also been a gift. He told his audience about the driver ants, about tom toms which are used to drive away the evil spirits, about the irregularly built villages which are so constructed because it is believed that it makes the homes harder to find for the spirits.

As he displayed a gourd, ornamented with beads, with which the Africans make music, he told the group to remember that life was filled with rhythm. "Give me homes in church that are filled with rhythm, I hear of too many homes that are filled with discord."

A whip was displayed which the Rev. Mr. Block told the boys stood for authority. "Our authority is the Sunday School and in your parents as examples and as leaders."

A cutlass which is used by the Africans to build homes and as protection was a symbol of work and sacrifice said the speaker. A knife was a symbol of keenness and conscience said the Rev. Mr. Block as he urged that the fathers sharpen the lives of these young fellows so that when the test comes, when they are tried, they will stand steadfast and true.

Challenge of Bible
"A challenge today for every Christian is the challenge of the Bible which is so much forgotten. Read the story of David if you want to teach your boys courage, of Abraham if you want to teach him helpfulness. Keep the light burning and you will not need to be afraid."

The program was opened with announcements made by Clarence Krebman, president of the Brotherhood which sponsored the banquet. He told the group that Brotherhood meetings were to be held henceforth on the last Tuesday of each month instead of the second Tuesday as had been the custom.

The next meeting of the Brotherhood will be held during Holy Week and plans were made to attend communion in a body that evening.

Leads Singing
The Rev. Samuel H. Roth, pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical English Lutheran church led the group in community singing. Miss Gertrude Michaleen at the piano after which Miss Helen Noyen sang "By the Bend of the River." Carroll Rodgers and son played several selections on harmonicas.

Korton Williams who was to be toastmaster at the banquet was delayed on his trip back to Neenah from Milwaukee where he was attending a conference but he was called upon to speak at the close of the meeting. Mr. Williams paid tribute to the "splendid message" which the Rev. Mr. Block has presented and urged a closer relationship between fathers and sons in order that fathers can set such fine examples that their boys will want to grow "like Dad."

The warden also reminded fishermen that by order of the conservation commission all fishing shanties must be removed from the ice on Lake Winnebago not later than Monday evening, March 1.

Commenting on the results of the sturgeon season, the warden said that not more than a dozen of the big fish were caught this season. Lake water was too muddy all season for good sturgeon fishing, he said. Other types of ice fishing were discouraged this season because of the tricky ice on the lake. Periods of warm weather created hazardous conditions which fishermen were wise to avoid, the warden said.

Native Wisconsin Trees

Conservation Commission Tells How to Identify Them, Discusses Their Value to State

IRONWOOD
The ironwood or hop-hornbeam is found throughout the state, usually on the better well-drained soils, or gravel bridges, in mixture with other hardwoods.

It is a small tree, 20 to 30 feet high and 8 to 12 inches in diameter, with broad, rounded crown of slender branches. The leaves are ovate-oblong with narrow tips, double-toothed along the margin, and two to three inches long. Both male and female flowers are found on the same tree. The fruit, which resembles that of the common hopvine, consists of a branch of leafy bracts, containing small flat nuts.

The bark is grayish-brown, thin, very narrowly and longitudinally ridged. The wood is very heavy, hard and strong, tough and durable, light brown to white. Used for fence posts, tool handles, etc., on farms. Too small and scattering to be of commercial importance, but should be retained in woodlots, especially where no hickory is found, as it serves for repairing agricultural implements. May be used for planting on lawns and in parks, but is too small for a street tree.

In many farm woodlots containing ironwood, it fills in openings, with seedlings so readily that in some sections of the state it must be regarded as a weed tree.

Viking Cagers Run Up Highest Total This Year

Move Out of Cellar in Midwest Conference Basketball Race

BY GORDON MCINTYRE
LAWRENCE college basketball team moved out of the cellar in the Midwest conference standings last night when it walloped Ripon college five, 42 to 29, at Alexander gymnasium. It was the second win for the Vikings over the Crimson and saw Art Denney's protégés run up the biggest score this season. Previous to last night both the Vikings and Redmen occupied the Midwest cellar.

Generally speaking the contest was a rather ragged exhibition of basketball. Sixteen fouls were called on each team and each club made 12 free throws. The first half was almost a continuous march from one free throw line to the other and took 35 minutes to play. 20 minutes of actual playing and 15 minutes of marching and time outs.

During the first ten minutes or so the game was listless and little short of a wake. Then Coach Denney sent Junior Kapp to center for the Vikings and when he started getting the jumps the Vikings snapped out of things and the game speeded up but the playing still was hit and miss.

Vikes Begin Drive
As the second half opened Lawrence started to pick up points and suddenly, while leading 22 to 18, put on a drive that featured Ripon. Straubel and Faleide, and ran the count to 33 to 19. Then Jackson replaced Faleide when the latter collected his fourth personal and he showed the folks that he has great possibilities by dumping three buckets in just a few minutes.

Despite the topheavy score, there were times when the Vikings looked decidedly off color and their handling of the ball left a lot to be desired for they rolled it around the floor, tried to pass before getting their hands on the ball and, together with Ripon's Redmen, tossed it out of bounds or just tossed it.

The Vikings had control of the ball often when Kapp was at center and he also did pretty well on the rebounds. However, he still has his defensive weaknesses but they didn't cause much trouble last night. Burton opened the evening's scoring but thereafter didn't do much until midway in the last half when the game opened up and he counted three baskets in a row. Straubel again looked good controlling driving and showing his way up to the basket either for a bucket or a free throw or two.

Burton led the Vike scorers with 11 points on four field goals and three free throws while Straubel had 10 points on three buckets and four gift shots.

USES ALL RESERVES
Jackson counted three buckets in just a few minutes of toil while Kapp and Faleide got two each and a free throw apiece and Osen one bucket and three gift shots. Coach Denney used all his reserves during the evening and Schuess worked at forward and Helierhoff and Crawford at guards.

Burton scored the first basket of the game for Lawrence and Radtke got one for Ripon. Straubel then added a free throw and a field goal to give Lawrence a 5 to 3 lead and the teams added free throws until the score was 8 to 5 with seven minutes of play gone and Lyle, Ripon guard was sitting on the bench with four personals.

With Lawrence leading 10 to 5 Ripon got two baskets in a hurry and the count was 10 to 9. Faleide then scored for Lawrence and Ponik for Ripon, each team got a free throw and Osen dumped a basket and the half ended 15 to 12 with the Vikings in front. Play was considerably faster in the last 10 minutes of the half with Lawrence usually in control of the ball but with both teams handling it badly.

TAKE 20-13 LEAD
As the final half opened each team dumped a free throw. Then Kapp passed to Straubel and the latter scored and a moment later Kapp dumped in a followup shot and Lawrence was in front 20 to 13. Fallon's basket for Ripon and

Representative Cannon to Try Unionizing Ball Stars

BY DILLON GRAHAM
WASHINGTON—(AP)—Representative Raymond J. Cannon of Wisconsin, who tried to unionize baseball players 17 years ago, is considering another attempt.
Cannon said he might introduce legislation which would have the effect of a unionization.
He said player contracts affect interstate commerce and thus can be supervised by the federal government.
"I'm not ready to discuss my plans now," he said, "but it is likely I will offer a bill this session."

Little Chute—The American Legion cagers can salt away the second half championship in the Little Chute Holy Name league at 7:45 Thursday night if they can defeat the Holy Name squad, the last obstacle in the way of their annexation of the second round title. Holy Name cagers have lost only two games and a victory tonight would give them a tie with league leaders.

In the other game, Shorty Shoes will make a bid for at least one league win. The Merchants have won three games and have defeated the Shoes once this round. All of the teams will enter the American Legion amateur tournament next week at Little Chute.

free throws advanced the score to 22 to 18 for the Vikings and then Lawrence started to click.
Burton got a field goal and Faleide repeated when he got the ball out near the free throw line after a lot of scrambling under the hoop. Kapp tossed to Burton on an out-of-bounds play and Cliff scored again and when Straubel dribbled his way under the hoop Lawrence led 30 to 18.

Burton got a basket and Osen a free throw and the score was 33 to 19 and then 20 as Faleide left the game. Jackson came in as forward and Burton moved to guard. Jackson announced his arrival with a field goal and when Burton made a free throw and missed the second and Kapp followed up, Lawrence led 38 to 20.

Ripon then slugged a bit of a spurt when Horke won two free throws and Balliet sank two long shots. Jackson countered with another basket and Lawrence led 40 to 26. Ripon got another free throw and Jackson tossed his third field goal. Horke's goal was Ripon's last marker and with Lawrence reserves playing the last few minutes the contest ended 42 to 29.

Rens, All-Stars Clash Tonight

Pro Teams, Battling for World's Title, Will Meet at Ripon

Oshkosh, Wis.—Having each won a game in two of the contests of the "world's series" for the professional basketball championship, the Oshkosh All Stars and the New York Renaissance are pointing for games at Ripon Wednesday evening and at Oshkosh, Saturday, and Green Bay, Sunday afternoon.

The best three of the five games will determine whether the New York team retains its world title or the Oshkosh cagers ascend to the throne.
Little indication as to the eventual outcome was given in the two games over the weekend as Oshkosh won on its home floor by a 34 to 32 score and the Rens won by a similar count at Madison, Sunday.

The All Stars have a squad of 10 men, among them some of the best of recent midwestern collegiate stars. Those who will probably start each of the games are All-American LeRoy Edwards, Kentucky University, at center; American Ed Mullen, Marquette, and Ray Hamann, Wisconsin, at guards; and Augie Vander Meulen, Carroll, and Felix Preboski, Wisconsin, forwards.

Others with the All Stars squad are Bill Mangam, Marquette, center; Jim Knoblauch, Carroll, and Jim Coff, Illinois Normal, forwards; and Fritz Wegner, Wisconsin, and Herman Wilasek, North Dakota, guards.

Defeats St. Mary
By 38 to 20 Score

Terrors Use Height to Advantage, Lead 29-8
At Third Period

BY C. J. KLEIBER
LEADING by a commanding margin throughout the game, the Appleton high Terrors scored an easy 38 to 20 win over a small St. Mary, Menasha, squad in a non-conference game last night at the armory. The visitors were outclassed from start to finish, but the locals nearly got panicky in the last few minutes when Prunuske dropped four field goals in rapid succession to bring up the St. Mary score.

Height and superior ball-handling ability gave the Terrors countless tries at the hoop and with Schade leading the parade, they romped to an early lead and stayed ahead. Menasha, on the other hand, was forced to shoot hurriedly and marked up only two field goals until the last quarter.

With Bowers, Schade and Slatery using their height to great advantage, the Terrors constantly controlled the ball off both baskets and, although using a methodical slow type of play, they were able to score at will.

Saints Try All The Time
Although out-scored, the St. Mary players were never out-gamed and they were in there at every moment trying for every point. The first period was nip and tuck with Slatery and Schade dropping field goals near the close to put the Terrors in front, 8-4. The score at the half was 16 to 6 and at three-quarter mark, 29-8.

Play was much faster in the second half when the Terrors discarded their slow maneuvers and used a fast break to good advantage with Slatery in the shooting role.

The locals disregarded one fundamental rule during the first half when Sellers and Helms would advance too far up court and allow the Menasha players many chances to score with a quick break. However, the visitors, although attempting the plays, were unsuccessful in dropping the ball through the net.

Borenz, Menasha center, was held without a field goal, but he proved the sparkplug of the invader's attack. Often dropping back to help the guards advance the ball, Borenz took several long shots in the first period and with a little luck might have started the invaders on the five foot line. Resch played good ball until removed late in the game with four personals.

Regulators On Bench
Shields spared his regular aggression last night and kept McKee, Bailey and Meyers on the bench for most of the game. When sent in, Meyers was placed at a forward berth opposite Slatery and later McKee, who responded with two nice hook attempts late in the game to help boost the Terror score.

Draping five baskets and one free throw, Schade led the Appleton scoring with Slatery next in line with 10 points on four goals and two free throws. Prunuske paced the Menasha attack with eight points. Resch was collecting three goals and a free shot.

Schade's two baskets and a free throw coupled with Slatery's goal and free throw pushed the locals in front at the quarter, 8-4, with Resch netting a goal and Hopfensperger and Picard making free throws for Menasha.

Appleton missed plenty of shots in the second period but Bowers came through with two field goals while Schade got one to make the count to 16-6 at the half. Slatery and Bowers got charity shots during this period. A free throw by Borenz and one by Will represented the invader's scoring.

Late in the third period, W. Spaulding netted a long angle shot to tie St. Mary its only points of the game. Meanwhile the Terrors were running rampant through a disorganized Menasha defense to score on every type of play and gain a 29-8 lead at the end of the quarter.

Appleton lacked a few points to its lead in the last period before being stopped by Prunuske's torrid pace. His ability to net shots caused the Terrors to think things over during a time out period, although there was no chance for an upset at that stage of the battle.

Football Coach Scoffs at Reports That He Intends to Resign

Pittsburgh—(P)—Campus leaders threatened today to call protest demonstrations if Dr. John B. (Jack) Sutherland resigns tomorrow as head coach of the University of Pittsburgh's football team because of disagreement with university athletic authorities.

Fraternity men, student heads and alumni lined up solidly behind the "silent Scot" and rallied support for the outburst despite Sutherland's prediction in Endicott, N. Y., where he spoke on a "good will" tour, that the differences would be settled. He will return to Pittsburgh tomorrow for a conference with university officials.

He scoffed at reports he intended to resign. Earlier, he had said he would "not resign willingly." He declared the trouble between him and W. Don Harrison, athletic director, developed over pocket money allowances for the Pitt players after the Rose Bowl game new year's day in Pasadena, Calif. Campus sources said today that Harrison gave each player $7. Sutherland, they said, declared it too little, and took from his own pocket enough to increase each player's allowance to $11.

Dressen Picks
Reds for Fourth

Cincinnati Manager Has Been Correct in 3 Forecasts

Cincinnati—(P)—Charley Dressen, who at the start of two past seasons has forecast accurately where his Cincinnati Reds would finish in the National league pennant race, scanned his roster today and expressed hope "we'll take fourth place."

"But," he added quickly, "I'm not making any predictions. If we can finish fourth, we can finish in first place just as well, the way the teams stack up now. They're mighty evenly matched."

He referred to first-division clubs at the close of the 1936 season: New York, Chicago, St. Louis and Pittsburgh, in order. In March, 1935, starting his first season as manager, Dressen shuffled his eighth-place team of the year before, added new "blood" and declared cockily: "We'll finish sixth."

Few believed him, but he was right. Last year he told a pre-season civic baseball dinner: "We'll finish in fifth place," and again he proved correct.

The peppery little leader was cheered by signing of Paul Derringer, the club's ace hurler, at a figure which the big right-hander said included "an unexpected bonus." Len Kahny, home-town shortstop now with the Durham, N. C. farm team also came to terms.

Former Champion Scheduled for Bob Pastor And Go in England

NEW YORK—(P)—Max Adelbert Baer, who was ready to retire from the ring for good after dropping his heavyweight championship to Jim Braddock and then absorbing a beating from Joe Louis, was back in the midst of the fight argument today with two bouts waiting for him.

Max has contracts for a bout in England, May 6, against either Ben Foord or Tommy Farr and for a bout here against Bob Pastor in Madison Square Garden, March 19. He also has a British promoter, Brig. General Alfred Cecil Critchley, on hand to persuade him to go through with the London fight.

The affair may be settled at today's meeting of the New York State Athletic commission, when the Pastor bout will come up for approval. Max was summoned for questioning about his often damaged hands and perhaps some other matters, before the New York solons would approve the match.

Meanwhile Critchley is demanding a show-down.

"Either Baer goes through with my offer or I'm through with him," he said.

While everyone concerned in the Braddock-Schmeling-Louis fight feud remained silent yesterday, reports were current that Braddock would be deprived of his title by the New York commission if he should fail to appear for the June 3 bout with Max Schmeling.

However, no action is due for some time. According to its regular procedure, the commission can't assume Braddock will not show up until he fails to comply with its rule requiring him to be in training within 15 jurisdiction for five days preceding the bout.

It also was reported that Schmeling would lay claim to the crown if it was taken from Braddock.

Boilermaker Scoring Ace Hasn't Been Doing So Well Lately

Chicago—(P)—Jewell Young, Purdue's southpaw forward who has scored only 12 points in his last two games, must score 27 points in the two remaining tilts on the Boilermaker schedule to establish a new all-time Big Ten individual scoring mark.

Young has 141 points to his credit and, until Minnesota and Michigan slowed him down, appeared likely to tie or break Joe Heff's record of 1937 for a season, made in 1933.

Clafin Begins to Think Of Spring and Fishing

BY BERT CLAFIN
Post-Crescent Outdoor Editor

HERE is a short period of time from now until the "pike" begin their annual run up the Wolf river to usher in another long season for anglers during which the fishermen will chafe. But it won't be long, for almost before we realize it the last vestige of snow and ice will have left the fields and waters, the crocuses and marsh mallows will be waving their invitations along the creeks and lowlands and the rattle of fishing paraphernalia and the roar of cars as they head for the big outdoors will awaken disgruntled neighbors in the "we sma" hours. So now is the time to go over equipment. Don't wait until a day or two before you plan to start.

You probably won't have time to wind that rod, grease your reel, or order those new baits and do forty other necessary things that will find you perfectly organized for that day of days. This is just a reminder.

In the meantime, do you want a real thrill in the outdoors? If you do let me suggest that you drive to New London and watch the daring ski runners defy death on March 11. That live little city has been awarded the state open championship contests. The runs will be made on the new Mosquito hill slide. If you haven't witnessed a ski contest, I assure you that when you see one of the daredevils shoot down that hundred feet like a bullet you will catch your breath. Then, when he "takes off" for the long leap, you will yell. You just can't help it. Imagine if you can a human being hurtling through the air for two hundred feet, alighting on his feet and sliding along to safety. It's the acme of daring, skill and grace. Go and see it. You won't be sorry.

The coming outdoor season promises to be the biggest one in every way that has ever been experienced in Wisconsin, with fishing, of course, the chief magnet. I base that on the enthusiasm shown at the dozen meetings about the state where I have acted as speaker. Dealers in equipment necessary for sessions in the big outdoors will do a larger business than ever this year, by far more people than ever are already planning to spend their vacations in outdoor playgrounds; and fishermen who write me will be given full benefit of my investigations last summer, many of them having been conducted on waters never before visited by me.

Kaws Seek Scoring Punch As They Face Shawano Game

Kaukauna—The injection of a heavier scoring punch into his basketball team has been the aim of Coach Paul Little in practices this week as the Kaws prepare for the Shawano game there Friday night. Although the team's floorwork and passing has been good in recent games, they have been unable to take proper advantage of scoring opportunities. Their shooting slump was most evident in the game last Friday night against Clintonville when the Kaws just managed to squeeze through with a 23-20 win after missing an unusually high percentage of their shots. In the first quarter of that game the Kaws had 16 chances, all within the free throw line, and made good on only two.

Seeking greater reserve strength with the tournament on the way, Coach Little has been using three second-string men, Lambie, forward, Peterson, center, and McCormick, forward, at varsity berths occasionally during practice. Lambie's presence also gives greater height to the team. However, there's little indication that there will be any change in the regular lineup and of Vanevenhoven and Koehne, forwards, Bootz, center, Hanby and Hatchell, guards. These men will probably start against Shawano.

The "B" squads of the two schools will play a preliminary. The Kaukauna players will travel by bus.

Manawa Banker and Family Rescued From Flood Water

Manawa — Charles E. Hoffmann, cashier of the Farmers State bank of Manawa, Mrs. Hoffmann and their 2-year-old son, Charles, Jr., narrowly escaped death in the flood waters of the Sugar river near Darlington, Sunday. The Hoffmann family left here Saturday planning to spend the weekend with relatives in Madison and Shullsburg. They spent Saturday at Madison in company with Miss Josephine O'Neill, a Madison nurse, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Garland B. Smith. Mrs. Smith is a sister of Mr. Hoffmann. On Sunday the three Hoffmanns and Miss O'Neill left for Shullsburg.

Water was flowing over the highway entering into Darlington, driving conditions were precarious, and when the Hoffmann car slid into a ditch bordering a street within the city limits of that place, screams of the women attracted the attention of nearby residents, who called the fire department. Water was seeping into windows of the car and the two women were sitting in the rear seat of the machine holding the child above them when the rescue was effected with the aid of Mr. Hoffmann, the Darlington fire department, District Attorney William McDaniel, and Milton Ross, both of Darlington.

McDaniel and Ross obtained a rowboat and a long rope, and Ross waded through the swirling water with the boat. One end of the rope was tied to the boat, the other to the fire truck on dry land. The occupants of the car were placed in the boat, and loved to safety by the truck. They were taken to a Darlington hospital suffering from exposure and shock.

Nicholas Rath, St. John, is convalescing at his home after having dislocated a shoulder when he fell on the ice last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Nick Schaefer and family, Appleton, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schmidt and daughter, Audrey, were dinner guests on Sunday at the George Schaefer residence.

Miss Marie Loerke, Milwaukee, was a weekend visitor here with her mother, Mrs. Anna Loerke.

Black Creek Group at Postal Examinations

Black Creek — Village residents who attended the postal examination at Appleton Saturday for the Black Creek post office were: Mrs. M. Breitenbach, Mrs. R. A. Annuson, E. S. Maas, Glen Van Straten and Kermit Miller.

The Royal Neighbors will sponsor a bake sale at 10:30 Saturday morning at the W. F. Hahn meat market.

"The Word of God Became Flesh" will be the sermon topic at services at 10:30 Sunday morning at St. John Evangelical church. Sunday school will be held at 9:30. The Women's Union will hold a meeting March 3.

Filling Station to Change Hands March 1

Forest Junction — One of two filling stations at the junction of Highways 10 and 57, at the western foot of the West Forest Junction viaduct, will change hands on March 1, in consequence of preliminary arrangements which were concluded this week. Edwin Brochtrup, owner of the station since the beginning of this year, is selling the place to Orville Versteegen, previously associated with John Kiefer in operating the service station at the opposite end of the viaduct at the church corner in the village. The station had been operated by Brooks Oil company of Dundas previous to its acquisition by Mr. Brochtrup.

In a real estate transfer effective at once, the 130-acre farm of August Franke in the town of Holland, two miles north of Forest Junction, becomes the property of Albert Stebana, adjacent landowner in the same township.

Case Speaker at Lions Gathering

Rehabilitation Administrator Tells Waupaca Group of His Work

Waupaca—C. F. Case, rural rehabilitation administrator for Waupaca, Waushara and Green Lake counties, was the guest speaker at the Lions club meeting Monday noon at Hotel Delevan, and explained his work. By a coincidence, James Dance, regional director of rehabilitation for Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin, was also present. Mr. Dance, past president of the local Lions club, has his headquarters in Milwaukee, but spent the weekend in the city.

The club discussed ways of entertaining the high school basketball team, the date and means to be decided upon by the committee. Ed Hart, Dr. H. Remmel, John Burnham and L. M. Emans. This committee will cooperate with one from the junior chamber of commerce, which organization is also planning to entertain the team.

Many changes took place in the personnel of the teaching force on Monday, due primarily to the storm and the fact that many of the teachers had spent the weekend at points outside the city.

Mrs. Walter Nelson is substituting for Miss Mildred Berg, third grade teacher who went to Broadway for the weekend and was unable to return because of illness. Mrs. Paul Williams substituted for Miss Alma Jedlicka of the second grade, who was unable to return until Monday afternoon. Mrs. Edwin Knudson is substituting for Miss Pearl Chamberlain of the first grade for a few days. Miss Ruth Howison, who spent the weekend in Menominee, was unable to return Monday and her place in the home economics department was taken by Mrs. Edward Hart, Harold Por-Hoewisch, Edward Conrad, Charles Kiling, Herman Zschachner, John McGlinn and Art Conrad.

The deceased was born Feb. 16, 1851, in Kilbuck, Russian Poland. She became an orphan at the age of three years. In 1873 she was united in marriage to Ferdinand Mielke. The couple came to the United States in 1886. They lived at New London one year and at Stephenville 27 years before coming to Shiocton 23 years ago.

Since the death of her husband she lived alone with the exception of the last three years which she spent at the Schubert home. In spite of her advanced age she was in fairly good health until 12 days before her death when she was stricken with influenza and pneumonia. There are no survivors.

Services Conducted for Mrs. Mathilda Mielke

Shiocton—Funeral services for Mrs. Mathilda Mielke, 86, whose death occurred at 10:30 Saturday morning at the Theodore Schubert home in the village, were conducted from the First Lutheran church, Shiocton, at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon by the Rev. Louis Mielke. Burial was made at the Bovina cemetery. Bearers included Herman

Wilson Opposed Tampering With Supreme Court

War President Saw Possibility 30 Years Ago,
Lawrence Recalls

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—Possibility of a proposal to increase the size of the supreme court of the United States was foreseen 30 years ago by Woodrow Wilson and was severely condemned by him.

The following quotation from Mr. Wilson's writings on constitutional government, given in formal lectures at Columbia university, bears directly on the present controversy.

"The constitution provides that all judges of the United States shall hold their offices during good behavior, but congress could readily overcome a hostile majority in any court or in any set of courts, even in the supreme court itself, by a sufficient increase in the number of judges and an adroit manipulation of jurisdictions, and could with the assistance of the president make them up to suit his own purposes.

"These two coordinate branches of the government, to which the courts speak in such authoritative fashion with regard to the powers they may and may not exercise under the constitution—namely, congress and the executive—may, in fact, if they choose, manipulate the courts to their own ends without formal violation of any provision of the fundamental law of the land.

"There has never been any serious fear that they would do anything of the kind, though an occasional appointment to the supreme court has made the country suspicious and uneasy. But it is well to keep this matter clearly before us, if only that we may remind ourselves of the only absolute safeguard of a constitutional system. They lie in the character, the independence, the resolution, the right purpose of the men who vote and who choose the public servants of whom the government is to consist.

Index of Character
"Any government may be corrupted. Any government may fall into disrepair. It consists of men, and the men whom it consists of will be no better than the men who choose them. The courts are also the people's forum; they are also the index of the government's and of the nation's character."

It is not surprising therefore that men like Senator Carter Glass of Virginia who represent the Woodrow Wilson tradition in congress are vehemently opposed to the pending bill to increase the size of the supreme court to 15 because the justices are not deciding cases in conformity with the political or economic views of the Roosevelt administration.

Incidentally, the amount of congressional opposition to the proposal is somewhat disconcerting to the administration, notwithstanding an external appearance of calm and confidence at the White House. Members of congress are authority for the statement that the president was much surprised when he received his first private poll not only of the senate but of the house of representatives. The newspapers have been printing the probable lineup of the senators but no complete poll of the house has been disclosed as yet.

Hold Balance of Power
Reliable information is to the effect that the president found the war between 40 and 50 votes lacking of a favorable majority, insofar as those who were willing to commit themselves definitely for or against the proposition were concerned. In other words, the 'non-committal' group in the house holds the same balance of power as in the senate. In that group are the men who will finally decide the issue.

The data about the White House roll of the house would tend to explain the recent statements of house leaders that they preferred to await action by the senate before considering the president's proposals. Had the administration possessed the votes, as is so often the case in the house, the measure would have been put through promptly. It takes a two-thirds vote to suspend the rules and take up a bill out of turn or to get it out of a committee which delays a report. It is well known that the administration does not have a two-thirds vote to suspend the rules on this question in the house. Whether it will ultimately gain a majority for the measure itself depends on how effective is Mr. Roosevelt's campaign of personal persuasion which is going on right now.

May Call Conference
Mr. Roosevelt very properly can call members of congress to his office and tell them his arguments for the passage of a piece of legislation. Other presidents have done it. So long as the activity of a president is confined to argument and does not bring in questions of patronage or bargaining, it is considered a legitimate weapon.

Nobody knows of course, what goes on behind closed doors in the executive offices except the participants, and there are the usual rumors that Mr. Roosevelt uses the club of patronage or the withholding of PWA projects or other grants of presidential bounty from a political point of view in order to influence votes. Such a charge, however, has not been proved, and, in the absence of public proof, Mr. Roosevelt will be absolved from such charges.

What has been often suggested is that political lieutenants of the president, who are busy from time to time on capitol hill lining up votes for administration measures, do not hesitate to dangle possible rewards, extending from federal judgeships to favorable action on the recommendations made by congressmen for the appointment of constituents to vacancies. Woodrow Wilson, in commenting on the proper and improper uses of personal persuasion, had this to say in his lectures on constitutional government:

Illegitimate Methods
"There are illegitimate means by which the president may influence the action of congress. He may bargain with members not only with regard to appointments, but also with regard to legislative measures. He may use his local patronage to assist members to get or retain their seats. He may interpose his powerful influence, in one convert way or another, in contests for places in the senate. He may also overbear congress by arbitrary acts which ignore the law and virtually override them. He may even substitute his own orders for acts of congress which he wants but cannot get.

"Such things are not only deeply immoral, but they are destructive of the fundamental understandings of constitutional government and, therefore, of constitutional government itself. They are sure, moreover, in a country of free public opinion, to bring their own punishment, to destroy both the fame and the power of the man who dares to practice them.

Leads Party, Nation
"No honorable man includes such actions in a sober exposition of the constitution or allows himself to think of them when he speaks of the influences of 'life' which govern each generation's use and interpretation of that great instrument, our sovereign guide and the object of our deepest reverence. Nothing in a system like ours can be constitutional which is immoral or which touches the good faith of those who have sworn to obey the fundamental law. The reprobation of all good men will always overwhelm such influences with shame and failure."

"But the personal force of the president is perfectly constitutional to any extent to which he chooses to exercise it and it is by the clearest logic of our constitutional practice that he has become alike the leader of his party and the leader of the nation."

Within the next few weeks President Roosevelt will have summoned to the White House many members of his own party. Concurrently members of the presidential board of strategy and staff will be contacting senators and representatives on capitol hill to line up votes for the bill to enlarge the supreme court. Is it a legitimate or illegitimate lobby? Congress rarely investigates itself, so the public will never know the answer to the question.

Severson Oldest Solon From Point of Service

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)
Madison—Oldest member in point of service in the state senate is Senator Herman J. Severson, Iola, who when he ends his present term will have served the twenty-third senatorial district, made up of Waupaca and Portage counties, for 20 consecutive years, or five full terms.

Senator Severson, who holds his senate seat as a Progressive, is one of a small group of influential members of that party in the upper house, and has served his constituency since 1918. During his long years in the legislature, the Iola member has participated in debates on some of the most important legislation ever enacted in Wisconsin, and has introduced a good share of significant laws himself.

Senator Severson's influence in the senate is not always apparent, but recognized as keen of mind, and occasionally sharp of tongue, his long experience and training place him in the front rank of those who are shaping the policies of state government and steering the course of action in the present legislature. Quiet, occupying a seat in the background, Severson is seldom in the limelight, but when the occasion demands he speaks his opinions clearly, briefly, and generally with effect. Both party associates and opponents have felt the lash of his sarcasm at times when his colleagues, over fond of horseplay, have wasted time needlessly.

As a friend, also a member of the senate, put it the other day, Senator Severson "belongs to the rather outmoded type of legislator."

He believes that the public's money should be handled with the same care and precaution that one exercises in his own private affairs. This friend pointed out that Severson seldom votes for salary increases or unwarranted appropriations, and that the executive budget bill has often been vetoed by him because the pruning knife had not been applied extensively enough.

The Waupaca county member has written, sponsored, or assisted in the writing of many important enactments, despite the fact that he introduces a few bills each session. His are the standard policy law for automobile insurance, the comparative negligence act, the repeal of the secrecy clause in income reports, and the suit which made possible the erection of the Wisconsin Memorial hospital. One of his best known works is what is known as the Severson dry law, passed in 1921, which he handled for Governor John Blaine, and which was passed to take care of the liquor revenue for the state after the adoption of the Volstead act.

OLDEST LEGISLATOR

State Senator Herman J. Severson of Iola, above, is the oldest member of the state legislature from point of service. When he completes this year he will have served for 20 consecutive years.

Wife Gave Assistance
Senator Severson acknowledges much assistance in his public life and work received from his wife, a former school teacher in the schools of Embarrass and who, incidentally, discouraged her husband from running for the state senate until all times in order to prevent accidents, the report stated. The following detours are still in effect: Calumet, S. T. H. 57, Chilton-New Holstein road; Columbia, U. S. H. 16, Columbus-Portage road; Lafayette, S. T. H. 78, Blanchardville-Argyle road; Marinette, S. T. H. 64, Marinette-Found road; Polk, U. S. H. 8, Turtle Lake-Range road; Shawano, U. S. H. 45, Tigerton-Wittenberg road; Wood, S. T. H. 54, Wisconsin Rapids-Stevens Point road.

State Roads in Fair Condition

Freezing, Thawing Will Create Hazards, Commission Warns

In spite of patches of ice on roads in the southern half of the state, excepting Milwaukee, Racine and Kenosha counties, all state trunk highways in Wisconsin are in good to fair condition for travel, a report from the state highway commission to F. R. Appleton, county road commissioner, states.

Thawing and freezing will create hazardous places and while every effort will be made by the counties to take care of these conditions, motorists must drive cautiously at 1918. Mrs. Severson's objection was to her husband's neglect of a paying law practice to serve in the legislature for a $500 salary. But, finally Mr. Severson did enter the legislature, and at a salary of $500 for a biennium. Since that time salary has been increased to $2,400 for the two year term of an assemblyman, and $100 a month through the four years of a senator's term.

Twice president pro tempore of the senate, Senator Severson is recognized as the ablest parliamentarian in that body, and is master of all the diverse rules, traditions, and precedents which are constantly arising to plague the newer members.

Senator Severson is a graduate of Drake university and the University of Wisconsin. Since graduation he has practiced law in Iola.
